MRS. DOLLY BIBBENS

Mrs. Bibbens, 37 and pretty, the third victim of an atrocious, baffling killer in San Diego. She was found in her apartment, throat slashed, diamonds gone.

NAME OF GIRL'S SLAYER KNOWN

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 27.—(INS.)—Identity of the slayer of Louise Teuber, 17, whose unclad body was found hanging from a tree here last week, was said to be known by police today.

While his name was withheld, it was said that he was the man with whom Louise is known to have had an appointment and for whom she called off other "dates."

Police further said that the man persuaded Louise to quit her job to go with him to another city.

Authorities yesterday re-enacted the hanging yesterday at the scene of the crime, using the rope that snuffed out the life of the 17-year-old salesgirl.

No developments were reported today in the investigation of the deaths of the two other strangled victims, Virginia Brooks, 10-year-old school girl, and Mrs. W. D. Bibbens.

Pretty Girl Slain, Hurled From Auto

YONKERS, N. Y., April 27.—(INS.)—A pretty unidentified girl about 21 years old, with auburn hair, was found shot to death behind a low wall in a sparsely settled neighborhood here today.

Police expressed the opinion that the girl was "taken for a ride." They believe she was shot while in an automobile and her body then thrown out at the spot where it was found.

Brotzman Forecasts Heavy Frost Tonight

'LEGS' AGAIN VICTIM OF GUNMEN

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 27.—Jack (Legs) Diamond, notorious gangster and racketeer, is in a very serious condition and he may not live, Dr. Thomas M. Holmes, his physician, announced this afternoon.

Diamond was shot from ambush early yesterday morning while he was dining at a roadhouse inn near Cairo, N. Y. He was rushed to an Albany hospital for treatment.

Earlier in the day Dr. Holmes had stated he did not consider Diamond's wounds as serious. This afternoon he said that he believed Diamond had been shot with machine gun bullets. Hospital authorities previously announced that the gangster had been injured by buckshot. He had been shot in the back.

An X-ray shows that a bullet had punctured Diamond's right lung and then lodged in his liver, Dr. Holmes said.

NUMEROUS THEORIES

Numerous theories were going the rounds as to why Diamond was shot down from ambush. One theory given wide credence was that some of Greene County's residents became "fed up" on the swaggering gunman.

Diamond's shooting climaxed a charge by Frank H. Cook, president of the Catskill Chamber of Commerce, that the racketeer was extorting $1,000,000 annually from liquor sellers and farmers. He said that most of the sum came from farmers of Greene

Guilty Pleas By Four in Lottery

Four of the six men whose arrest as lottery numbers writers was caused by Pearl Ida Ferguson's embezzlement of $4,000 from the Dormont Savings and Trust Company, pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today.

They pleaded to two counts of writing lottery numbers, but not to two other counts charging them with conducting a lottery. They were Lawrence F. Bope, of Brentwood; Elmer Hart, of West Liberty avenue; Fred Rothweiler, of Lelia street, and S. O. Thomas, of Woodstock avenue.

Sentence was deferred pending outcome of the charges against the other two, Patsy Martire, alias Patsy Young, of Broadway, and Jesse Levy, of Plainview avenue, who were scheduled to go on trial late today.

All were arrested after Miss Ferguson, former teller at the Dormont bank, who has pleaded guilty to embezzlement, said she lost the money on their numbers lottery.

Evans Granted Open Quiz in Garbage Costs

A public investigation of Attorney Henry Oliver Evans' charges that garbage and rubbish removal costs are excessive will be held before City Council Wednesday morning, President John S. Herron said today. This development is the triple probes of administration activities came as Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner prepared to investigate a possible collusion to restrain trade in connection with the sale of concrete to the City of Pittsburgh.

Attorney Benner's investigation follows in the wake of the rejection of bids for the purchase of 12,000 tons of concrete by Col. W. R. Dunlap, director of the Department of Supplies.

DR. MAITS READY

Contracts for garbage and rubbish removal are under the jurisdiction of the Department of Health, and its director, Dr. C. B. Maits, said today that he was ready for Evans' inquiry.

Col. Dunlap announced today that an ordinance would be introduced in City Council today to readvertise for concrete bids. This is the third time bids have been asked. Previous bids, ranging from $3.60 to $5.50 per ton, were

SCHOOLEY ASKS WHARF JOB

City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley today proposed to solve the controversy over which department shall have charge of the city wharves by taking charge himself.

In a letter to City Solicitor Charles E. Waldschmidt, Schooley pointed out that an act of assembly gives the city treasurer power to operate the wharves, which the city uses as parking concessions. Schooley asked Waldschmidt to present the matter to Council.

Council's plan has been to transfer the management of the wharves from the Department of Public Safety to the Department of Public Works, a plan which the former department objects.

STATE LIFTS LOAN FIRMS' LICENSES

Illegal Interest Charges Bring Action Following Alleged Extortion Plot

Licenses of the Fulton Loan Association, 413 Fourth avenue, and of the Daily Loan Service, 326 Fourth avenue, were ordered revoked by the State Department of Banking today, following the exposure of illegal interest charges through arrest of an alleged extortionist.

George H. Slaine, special investigator for the department, was here today under orders from C. J. Orth, state bank examiner, to investigate the companies, revoke licenses and prefer charges against officials of the firms.

UNDER INVESTIGATION

Orth said:

"There's plenty wrong with these firms if they gave Dorsett the money. They have been under investigation anyway, and we weren't going to renew their licenses, May 31."

The Fulton Association and the Daily Service are owned and operated by the same man, who operates a chain of small loan outfits nationally, according to J. D. Swigart, district bank examiner. The loan organizations, Swigart said, had been accepting 10 per cent interest monthly on loans, instead of the legal three and one-half per cent monthly.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Charges against the two firms grow from the arrest, Friday, of C. D. Dorsett, 50, of West View, by county detectives on a charge of extortion. Dorsett is accused of extorting money from the two companies in return for not complaining to the State Banking Department. He was arrested on information of Frank E. Corwin, a private detective, whom he is said to have asked for assistance in his plans, and County Detectives Albert Shedlock and James G. McGinley, whom Corwin brought into the case.

Representatives of the Pittsburgh Industrial Lenders Association today stated that neither of the companies involved were affiliated with their organization, which seeks to put the small loan business on a high plane and stop illegal practices.

Several test flights are planned to determine if the machine is ready to continue its interrupted flight to New York.

MT. WASHINGTON TROLLEY CAR, OFF TRACK AND ON EDGE OF CURTIS STREET CLIFF

The trolley that split a switch, left its rails, plunged through a fence and only because of a pole didn't plunge over a cliff. Passengers were shaken up in the mishap, none seriously injured.

CAR DERAILED NEAR TUNNEL

Passengers in a Mt. Washington street car were shaken up when the car, inbound near Curtis street, plunged through a fence and almost ran over an embankment overlooking the tunnel and barns, late yesterday.

Railways company officials said the accident occurred when a large bolt was lodged accidentally in the switch on the company's right of way near Curtis street. Andrew Plesh, of 402 Boggs avenue, the motorman, also escaped injury.

Ex-Senator Injured, Sheepman Accused

BAKER, Ore., April 27.—(AP.)—A warrant has been issued charging John Stringer, sheep ranch foreman, with assault with intent to kill former Senator Robert N. Stanfield, of Oregon. Officers said Stringer was expected to surrender today.

Stringer was accused of driving his automobile into Stanfield following an altercation over the cutting of a fence near Huntington, Ore., last Wednesday.

Prajjie Travels Farther Than Al, But Can Return

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

New York got a load of an absolute monarch yesterday when we spotted King Prajadhipok of points east.

Prajjie is monarch of all he surveys. He's over here to consult an optician because he wants to see more.

Of course, he has to survey it in Siam. But over there his word is law and two words are an amendment.

But he can't be so total. We noticed that Mrs. Prajadhipok was along.

He's not a bad little fellow for a king. He's traveled further than Alfonso. But he can go back.

His visit is a tribute to American medical science and research. We also have the Belgian and Japanese princes in America at the same time and Grover Whalen has asked for an armistice to allow his high hat to cool off.

We expect Alfonso to accept one of the Westchester, N. Y., invitations this spring. We've got to have republics so monarchs will be safe.

While dodging most of New York's 40,000 taxicabs they asked Prajjie what he thought of the city's skyline. Which is just a gag to get you smacked by the taxicabs.

He took three quick leaps toward Siam and reserved his decision.

MRS. THOMSEN HELD INSANE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 27.—(AP.)—A lunacy commission, appointed by the Luzerne County court to determine the mental condition of Mrs. Frances Thomsen, slayer of Minnie E. Dilley, wealthy recluse, today declared the woman insane.

Mrs. Thomsen, once a neighbor of the woman she battered to death with a bottle and hacked with a bread knife, was arrested in Pittsburgh, where she lived with her husband and three children.

According to the formal report of the lunacy commission, Mrs. Thomsen is a paranoiac. Her belief that Miss Dilley exercised some sinister influence over her husband, Karl Thomsen, Pittsburgh lumber salesman, was responsible for the brutal murder of the aged Forty Fort spinster on the morning of April 3, the court was told.

It is likely Mrs. Thomsen will be sent to an institution either at Rittersville or Danville.

Hurley 'Very Tired,' Goes to Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 27.—(AP.)—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who is making his headquarters at the Army and Navy Hospital, said he was here not because he was sick, but because he was a "very tired man" and felt the thermal baths would give him needed relaxation.

LAX CONTROL OF UTILITIES ASSAILED

Investors, Consumers Both Suffer, Quiz Report Says; Submit Document Tonight

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, April 27.—D. Glenn Moore, of Washington County, chairman of the House committee investigating utilities, today revealed a skeleton text of the preliminary report to be presented in behalf of his committee in the House tonight.

Timed so that it meets the fair rate bill of the administration, which is on second reading, the report criticizes the Public Service Commission, charging it neglected both the consumer of utility products and the investor as well.

It charges also that the testimony at the hearings has cut the ground from under the utilities argument that "their enterprise is a form of charity carried on in the spirit of self sacrifice for the benefit of the community with a fine disregard of the fair return and monopolistic privileges enjoyed."

UTILITY REGULATION

It points out the serious ineffectiveness of existing utility regulation, and states the investigation has disclosed some practices which call for correction.

It was learned also that the Senate Committee on Executive Nominations, which has been holding the names of Public Service Commissioners James S. Benn and Samuel Walker, is unlikely to bring the men out for confirmation, particularly Benn. There is some doubt as to whether or not Gov. Pinchot, if the Senate adjourns without confirming the pair, can replace them with two others of his own choice. It was considered that if Benn and Walker were named on the floor for confirmation, Benn would not get enough votes at this time to continue in office.

CONSUMER NEGLECTED

Moore's report says:

"The report to be presented tonight represents tentative conclusions and recommendations arrived at by the committee after 22 public hearings at which over 4,000 pages of testimony have been produced.

"Evidence of popular dissatisfaction with the Public Service Commission as constituted and functioning has been presented by many municipalities and individuals. Many more than could be heard filed complaints,

Wife Prefers Second Mate To Czarist Enoch Arden

MEXICO CITY, April 27.—(AP.)—For 12 years Vladimir Gornier, a captain in the army of the Czar and of the White Army of Baron Wrangel, has dreamed of the day when he would be reunited with pretty Anna Dimitri, whom he married in 1919 before setting out on a campaign against the Bolsheviki.

Yesterday he found Anna walking along the principal street of Mexico City, but with another man, Sergio Jacobitz, whom, when she thought Gornier dead in battle, she had married.

The former Czarist officer, maddened at the thought of losing her after so many years of hopeless search, threatened to shoot both unless she came back to him, but Anna chose to remain with Jacobitz and called the police to protect them from her former husband. They all went to court today and told their story to police, who took precautions for Anna's and Jacobitz's safety.

She settled down in Moscow to await her husband's return, but after a year word came that the entire colony had been wiped out by typhus. In 1923 she married Jacobitz and they came to Mexico to make their home.

Gornier explained that he had escaped from the prison camp shortly before the typhus epidemic broke out.

'Buck' Crouse Sues Park, Society Man, for $98,000

Crouse contends Park owes him that sum for his services as private physical instructor and social companion. The former middleweight boxer tells that in 1926, after having been employed by Park for six years, he was anxious to quit, but that Park promised him if he would remain for three more years, he would give him a bonus of $100,000, plus a monthly salary ranging from $250 to $750.

Since he left Park's employment in 1929 Park has paid $2,615 of the bonus, but has not paid the balance, Crouse contends.

Crouse, who is now associated in relief work with the Rev. James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church, explains that his monthly salary fluctuated, depending upon the social and other affairs which also took up his time.

MacMillan Plans Sea Hop In Hunt for Nungesser

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(AP.)—Commander Donald B. MacMillan said today he hoped to solve the disappearance four years ago of Capt. Charles Nungesser and Francis Coli, French fliers, when he attempts a round trip flight from Boston and London this summer.

The veteran Arctic explorer said he planned an aerial survey of the Northern portion of Labrador, and a side trip to Baffin Land. He added he believed it possible the French fliers, who hopped off from Paris, May 7, 1927, for New York, might have been forced down in Labrador. He will keep a close watch for their plane, the White Bird.

With Charles F. Rocheville, of Los Angeles, a former navy flier, MacMillan said he would pioneer a proposed northern air mail and passenger route at the request of Great Northern Atlantic Airways. Their Lockheed Vega cabin monoplane, capable of flying 2,800 miles without landing, will be ready to fly East early next week.

FINANCIER TO RETAIN HOLDINGS

Bishop Is Named Chairman, Four Bankers on Board; Firm Declared Solvent

CLEVELAND, April 27.—(AP.)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who founded Continental Shares, a $156,000,000 investment concern, has resigned as chairman of the board and heads of four Cleveland banks have been elected directors.

George T. Bishop, Cleveland and New York financier and widely-known public utilities and railroad executive, came from virtual retirement to become president of the corporation, which holds large public utility, steel and rubber interests.

Bishop declared that "in my opinion there is absolutely no reason for Continental shareholders to be apprehensive as to the entire solvency of the corporation and the ultimate substantial enhancement of their investments, providing, of course, the financial storm ever stops."

EATON SILENT

Eaton issued no statement, but appeared to his associates as sanguine and cheerful.

Eaton does not relinquish any of his holdings and the move was made to inspire confidence in Continental shares should it have been threatened by the six stockholders' suits totaling $9,000,000 recently filed, it was stated by Theodore L. Bailey, spokesman for Continental shares and Otis & Co., Cleveland brokerage house.

Announcement also was made that the New York Stock Exchange transactions of Otis & Co., in which Eaton is a large stockholder, in the future will be handled by E. A. Pierce & Co. The latter move, Otis & Co. announced, was to segregate investments from commission business. This is in line with the policy recently advocated by the New York Stock Exchange.

BANKERS DIRECTORS

Eaton's resignation was made Saturday, but was not announced until last night. The bankers, all of Cleveland, who become Continental directors, are Wilbur M. Baldwin, president of the Union Trust Company; Harris Creech, president of the Cleveland Trust Company; J. Arthur House, president of the Guardian Trust Company, and Corliss E. Sullivan, chairman, Central United National Bank. M. J. Mandelbaum, Cleveland, and Philip Wick, Youngstown steel man and investment banker, resigned as directors. W. R. Burwell resigned as president and director and will continue as vice president.

Referring to the stockholders' suits on file against Eaton and other members of the former board, Bishop said:

"In this situation and with the approval of my co-directors, I suggested to Mr. Eaton and Mr. Burwell that in my opinion the best interests of all would be served by the election of a board of directors entirely dissociated with the transactions which have been challenged or even criticized by shareholders.

METEORIC CAREER

"I am very glad to say that Mr. Eaton and Mr. Burwell were entirely in accord with my suggestion, and I was requested by them to take such action as I deemed proper and to the best interests of all."

Eaton has had a meteoric career in financing utilities and steel mergers. Continental was formed in 1926 and was used as a vehicle by Eaton and his associates to put together the Republic Steel Corporation. Continental also played a part in Eaton's famous fight last fall against the proposed merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Eaton won his suit to enjoin the merger, but an appeal by its proponents is still pending.

'LEGS' DIAMOND SHOT AGAIN

County, who had complained Diamond's henchmen demanded tribute of 50 cents a barrel for cider they sold.

The cider, Cook said, was bought by bootleggers who distilled it into applejack.

It was reported here that appeals had been made to Gov. Roosevelt by the farmers to drive Diamond from the state.

PROSECUTION URDERED

In support of this rumor, Gov. Roosevelt today ordered Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., to supersede District Attorney Harrison I. Gardner, of Greene County, to prosecute Diamond on charges of asasult and kidnaping in connection with the "torture" attack on Grover Parks while he was delivering cider. This action was decided upon by the Governor before he knew Diamond had been shot.

The shooting occurred in the section where Diamond maintains a summer home at Acra, N. Y. Two bodyguards were said to have been with the gangster chief but escaped the gunfire.

Only last week Diamond was released in $25,000 bail. He was indicted by the grand jury in Greene County, N. Y., after Parks related he had been beaten up by Diamond's men while delivering a load of cider. Parks charged Diamond's gang roped him up and built a fire under his feet, after beating him.

REFUSES TO TALK

Diamond had returned to Acra recently from New York, where he was shot five times in a hotel last September 2, shortly after his return from Germany. He had been forced to return to America from Europe because of his criminal reputation, foreign authorities ordering him to the United States.

Authorities here said they had been unable to learn anything about the latest attack on Diamond. They said he refused a statement as to the attackers and at the inn no one was found who had seen the shooting.

SNOWDEN TILTS GAS TAX

By HARRY R. FLORY
International News Service.

LONDON, April 27.—Jacking up the price of gasoline another four cents per gallon and announcing a new plan to tax land values at the rate of a penny to the pound sterling, Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden today presented his budget for 1931-32, relieving the general fears that widespread taxation increases would be necessary to give Great Britain a favorable balance.

A windfall of $45,000,000 from the German mobilization loan, conversion of $100,000,000 of an exchange fluctuation deposit now lying in New York and an added $50,000,000 to come from a new method of income tax payments will supply the country with the extra $200,000,000 needed this year, the Chancellor's speech revealed.

With the exception of the gasoline tax, making this commodity now susceptible to a total tariff of 12 cents a gallon, Snowden virtually drew this extra income "out of a hat," accomplishing what many critics had declared to be an absolute impossibility. He estimated the year's revenues at $3,905,010,000 and expenditures at $3,904,358,760.

Bethlehem Accused In Steel Plant Deal

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 27.—(INS.)—In an official statement issued here today, the Pottsville Chamber of Commerce declared the Bethlehem Steel Company is "back of" the purchase of the Eastern Steel Company plant here by Alex Luria, of Reading. Scrapping of the local mills will be ordered if the sale is approved by the United States District Court at Philadelphia, the chamber charged.

Proceedings already have begun to hold up the sale on the ground that is in violation of the federal statute prohibiting combinations in restraint of trade.

Police on Guard As Rival Tongs Meet

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP.)—The Hip Sing and On Leong tongs opened their national conventions today with dragon parades and revelries through the lantern-strung streets of Chinatown.

Although the affair promised to be orderly, police watched for a possible outbreak of tong warfare because of the failure of the two tongs to form their proposed peace association.

SOVIET LUMBER ADMITTED

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(INS.)—The Treasury Department today telegraphed the customs collector at the port of Providence, R. I., to admit the shipment of Russian lumber consigned to the Dutton Lumber Company, of New York.

The lumber was brought to port on the Finnish freighter Afversoise last week, but was barred from shore until the Treasury determined whether it was produced in Northern Russia, where convict or forced labor is used. The products of such labor are denied admission to this country by the new tariff act.

Investigation disclosed the lumber came from Southern Russia and was not produced by convicts. The Treasury said all such shipments from Russia will be considered individually before they are landed.

ROMANCE WILL MARK PARLEY ON DOPE

Many Picturesque Figures To Attend Session Seeking Curb on Narcotic Slavery

By WINIFRED BLACK
Universal Service.

GENEVA, April 27.—Peacocks, apes and ivory—how much more romantic they are as a cargo than wool, and cotton, and well smoked hams and bacon. And yet—

That opium conference in Geneva should be one of the most romantic and picturesque gatherings in the world. It is called by the League of Nations to discuss some practical form of action which will help to free the world from the cursed slavery of dope.

There's a prince of the royal blood from Siam. He comes from the land of the pagodas.

There is Sir Malcolm Delevigne—he is one of the British delegates. Great Britain, for some strange reason, has more delegates than any other country. I suppose that is because a large part of the British revenue from the Far East comes from the raising of the opium poppy.

CONSTANT DELEGATE

Clever man, Sir Malcolm Delevigne—he has been a delegate to very opium conference of the League of Nations. Knows the opium game from start to finish, and makes no bones about it. No opium for England, thank you, but for India, China and Japan and the United States—ah, that is a horse of another color.

Punish the drug seller in England, but protect the drug raiser and the drug seller in the Far East where Great Britain rules. None of the stuff for good old England, but if misguided foreigners will have dope, what's the harm in allowing it to be raised and manufactured and sold in India, and the Straits Settlements, or anywhere else. Sir Malcolm is a living exponent of the old doctrine:

"All I 'axes' is let me alone."

HOLLAND'S DEFENDER

Then there's Van Wettum, of Holland.

They do not grow opium or the cocoa plant in Holland; they grow tulips and they make butter and cheese, and nobody dares even whisper the word dope in the Low Countries.

It was perhaps unfortunate that almost immediately after one of these indignant outbursts of Meinherr Van Wettum, an illicit dope factory was found turning out dope as smoothly as a windmill draws the water right in the heart of Holland.

ALL REPRESENTED

China, Japan, India, Turkey, Uruguay, Mexico—they are all represented in the delegation which will soon begin to arrive at Geneva.

Big business will be there too, be sure of that.

I wonder if Herr Hoffman, the German lawyer for the European drug cartel, will be actively present again this year, as he was at the last conference.

Highly intelligent man, Herr Hoffman, and very busy in the interests of his clients who make opium and morphine and heroin, and send it around the world for the uplifting and benefiting of the human race.

rejected, once by Bertram L. Succop, former director of the department, and recently by Col. Dunlap because they were similar.

Col. Dunlap said that on the face of the spurned bids, it appears dealers got together and put in the same bid. Col. Dunlap said he has been informed, however, that if the bids are the same again, he is authorized to award the contract to one of the bidders or all of them. The latter agreement, Dunlap said, would enable the purchase of concrete nearest to the job on which it was to be used. Dealers say the bids are alike because they were estimated from base prices which all of the dealers use.

PAY FOR ENGINEERS

City Council was to act upon a resolution today providing compensation for the Engineers' Committee which is to make an expert investigation of the technical phases of the Department of Public Works. The engineers are expected to start work shortly after Council acts upon the resolution setting aside $5,000 to defray the expense of the probe. S. A. Taylor, a consulting engineer, with offices in the First National Bank Building, has been designated as chairman of the group of engineering experts who will delve into the methods of estimating quantities used on city street and sewer work and letting of road contracts, as result of disclosures in the councilmanic investigation of charges of inefficiency in the Public Works Department.

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang said today he will make a statement, probably tomorrow, ordering all employes of the department to free themselves of outside influences and to caution inspectors on work under construction to "double diligence."

SIDEWALK TESTS

It was also indicated that the Bureau of Tests was to be ordered to conduct additional tests of sidewalks throughout the city, as result of a recent inspection showing 17 out of 18 sidewalks tested did not meet specifications. The sidewalks under scrutiny were those put in by the Carcia Construction Company, and they have been ordered to replace the faulty work without expense to the city.

Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin indicated that it would be two weeks, or longer, before a study of the record of the testimony of the Public Works investigation may be made for leads for possible criminal investigation. He said he had been informed by Harry Barstow, court stenographer, who took the transcript for the District Attorney's office, that it would be two weeks before it would be ready.

FIND MAN DEAD IN PARKED CAR

John B. Wilson, 32, an employe of the Barnes Motor Company, was found dead in his auto in McMasters road, beyond Turtle Creek today. He was married, the father of two children, and lived in Laketon road, Wilkinsburg.

County detectives believe the man took his own life. The motor was running and a metallic hose had been connected from the exhaust pipe through the broken floor of the car. He was dead when Leonard Custer and Paul Nebel, of Monroeville, found him, apparently suffocated by the gas fumes.

Among his papers were two insurance policies, a government notice informing him he had been granted a $400 bonus loan, and a slip of paper bearing the names of a half-dozen stocks.

LABOR SEES DRY CHANGE 'IN SIGHT'

Action for Wine and Beer At Next Congress Session Held Possible in Report

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(AP.)—Modification of the prohibition law to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer is seen as a possibility at the next session of Congress by labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead Act.

A report of the committee, based on a congressional survey, asserts that there are only 17 "die-hard" prohibitionists in the Senate and 43 in the House of Representatives and that "victory is in sight if those who have voluntarily enlisted in this cause will make their wishes known to the senators and congressmen from their states."

PREPARED BY WOLL

The report was prepared by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and I. M. Ornburn, president of the Cigarmakers' International Union, for submission today to the national conference of organized labor's anti-prohibition group. The report states:

"Of the 96 members of the United States Senate, 34 are willing to vote for the modification of the Volstead act permitting the lawful manufacture and sale of beer and light wines; 15 believe that beer is nonintoxicating, but claim they are not justified in voting to change the present legislation; 12 admit that a majority of the people of their states are producers or consumers of illicit liquors, but claim that the organized church vote is of so much importance that they do not feel it good personal policy to onpose it; 10 feel that both the Volstead act and the Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed and the entire matter left to each state for the people of the state to decide what they want to do, and eight refused to state their views.

SURVEY IN HOUSE

"Our survey of the House shows that there are 144 members who are ready to vote to modify the Volstead act; that 54 believe the act should be modified permitting the consumption of beer and light wines in the homes and each family limited as to the amount that may be purchased each month; that 35 congressmen admit the majority of their constituents are producers and consumers of illicit liquors, but are fearful that the organized dry influence, while in a minority, is so well organized that its demands cannot be openly flouted; that 55 members, mostly from grain and fruit producing areas, are unwilling to vote to modify the laws; that 34 others fear that with modification would come racial troubles in their districts, and that 67 members refuse to indicate how they feel on the question at this time."

ROONEY SLAYER PLEADS GUILTY

After a jury had been selected to try him for the murder of Myles Rooney, 45, former policeman, James V. Soldan, 44, of Emlin street, changed his plea to guilty in Criminal Court today. Testimony was then taken to fix the degree of guilt.

Soldan was charged with shooting Rooney following an argument in Rooney's rooming house in Boyle street in January.

Pessimism Over Outlook Not New, Coolidge Says

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 27.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

Contemporary opinion is usually too critical and often misdirected. In the perspective of history many of our present seeming imperfections will disappear and the good qualities of our society and government will be more apparent. Before becoming entirely discouraged and hastily deciding everything has so deteriorated that confidence is no longer warranted, it would be well to read some former opinions.

Mr. Coolidge

Discouraging conclusions are not new. They have continually been expressed even by the able and the thoughtful from the foundation of our republic. As judicially minded a man as Chancellor Kent wrote in 1845, "I think we have at Washington the meanest, most malignant, party hacks and tools that ever were doomed to curse a republic." Yet the country not only survived but the government of that day is now conceded to have included some of our most brilliant statesmen.

Sometimes the whole body of the Congress falls into disfavor because of the actions of a few members. The blame lies with the voters who elect undesirable persons. When elected, other members have to work with them.

This republic has a good government. The future undoubtedly will judge this period as a time when the country met its difficulties remarkably well.

SPEECH HELD INDECENT BY OFFICIAL

Use of Word 'Hell' in Telling Of Disputed Fort Capture Brings End to Broadcast

Universal Service.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—They're calling him "Hell 'n Haiti" Butler here today, as result of the radio censorship of his speech Saturday night.

Gen. Smedley Butler has gone back to Quantico, but the memory of the incident lingered on thousands of tongues. Butler apparently considered the incident ended—though he still was wrathful—when he left here for the Marine base.

HOLDS WORD INDECENT

The station is WELK, owned by Howard R. Miller, and without connection with the Elks Club here even though it announces as "The Voice of the Elks." Miller still stuck to his contention, today, that he was correct in cutting Butler off the air when he used the word "hell." He said:

"It's not a decent word."

Dr. Percy Van Dyke Shelly, professor of English at the University of Pennsylvania, and a noted purist of English usage, sanctioned the general's use of the word, however. He held that since it was "quite in character, and appropriate to the occasion," it could not be called "obscene, profane or indecent," which is what Miller called it in his explanation over the air.

DESCRIBES CAPTURE

Butler used it while describing the capture of Fort Riviere in Haiti in 1915. He had told how he and a sergeant and a private were to crawl into a hole to get inside the fort. Two Haitians were sniping through the hole. Some 150 others were inside. He said:

"I knew I should go in first, but I didn't feel like it. I looked over at the sergeant in a sort of helpless way. He saw that look, and I guess he said to himself, 'Oh, hell, I might as well go first,' and he did."

Government Radio Commission officials at Washington said Miller was justified in cutting off Butler's speech.

CHARGES SIFTED

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Secretary of State Stimson today began sifting to the bottom the charges by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, Marine Corps hero, that Dantes Bellegarde, Haitian minister here, slandered his military record in connection with the capture of Fort Riviere, on the island republic, in 1915.

Mr. Bellegarde

While Bellegarde has issued a statement modifying published reports that he had declared Fort Riviere "never existed" and Gen. Butler's exploits were largely mythical, the State Department will call for an official explanation.

TWO CHURCH REPORTS ASK CHANGES

Commission Action Favoring Birth Control to Be Topic At Assembly Meet Here

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP.)—Changes in church codes are proposed in reports published today by official groups within the Protestant Episcopal church and the Presbyterian church in the United States of America.

An Episcopalian commission appointed six years ago recommended adoption of virtually a new canon covering the church's attitude toward divorce and remarriage. A commission of the Presbyterian Church, deploring the increasing divorce rate, gave its approval to birth control and suggested the establishment of courses for instruction in marriage.

The Presbyterian report will be submitted to the General Assembly of the church in Pittsburgh, May 28. The Episcopalian revision will be presented to the general convention in Denver, September 16.

MARRIAGE COURT URGED

The revised canon of the Episcopalian church advocated the creation of ecclesiastical courts to pass on problems of marriage. It would permit ministers to remarry communicants and divorced persons under certain circumstances, eliminate all mention of ground for divorce and remarriage, and define nine causes for annulment.

Even though a minister should officiate at the marriage of a communicant and one divorced, the ceremony could not be conducted in a church edifice nor could the book of common prayer be used.

At present an Episcopalian minister cannot in any circumstances officiate at the remarriage of a guilty party in a divorce granted for infidelity, although he can remarry the innocent party with the consent of the bishop.

CANON REVISED

The revised canon covering the point reads:

"Any person to whom a divorce from a former marriage has been granted for any cause by a civil court may, after the expiration of one year from the granting of the divorce apply to his bishop or the ecclesiastical marital court of his domicile for permission to marry another person. * * * If the bishop or court permits the proposed marriage, a minister of the church may solemnize the marriage, provided, however, that he shall not solemnize it in the church or by the form contained in the book of common prayer."

Explaining the reasons for the change relating to infidelity, Bishop Herman Page, of Detroit, chairman of the commission, said:

"There is one outstanding reason for removing the exception for infidelity, namely, that in a divorce given by the civil court for this cause it is often the innocent party that is penalized. Many times when a wife is guilty the husband makes himself the apparent offender in the eyes of the law."

PEOPLE ASK GUIDANCE

In giving its approval to birth control, the commission of the Presbyterian church said:

"Earnest Christian people are asking for the church's guidance on the subject of birth control. This subject demands attention today as never before. Economic conditions and a worthy standard of living make it wrong to bring children into the world without adequate provision for their nurture and proper consideration for the health of the mother."

If birth control is practiced, the report continues, "it should only be in fidelity to the highest spiritual ideals of the Christian home."

The church reaffirmed its position that "nothing but infidelity or such wilful desertion as can in no way be remedied by the church or civil magistrate is cause sufficient for dissolving the bond of matrimony."

WALES, GEORGE TO FLY HOME

BORDEAUX, France, April 27.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales and his brother George, one day from England after a four months' trip to South America, landed today at Pointe de Grave, at the mouth of the Gironde, and prepared to fly home tomorrow.

H. M. S. Kent brought them here from Lisbon, where they left their liner, the Arlanza, to confer the Grand Cross of the Order of the British Empire upon President General Carmona. It was their original intention to use the Kent all the way home, but weary of traveling, they decided to save a day's boat ride by landing here and flying the rest of the way.

A regular London drizzle with blackest clouds overhead greeted the royal visitors. French officials and the British consular staff and the air attache of the Paris embassy went in a pilot's launch to the cruiser to welcome them.

HUNT EXPLORER IN GREENLAND

LONDON, April 27.—(AP.)—The vast wastes of Greenland's icy mountains beckoned today to a youthful British army officer, Capt. Raynor, en route to Norway to head an expedition which will attempt the rescue of his fiancee's brother, lost somewhere on the Greenland icecap.

The missing man is Augustine Courtauld, survivor of the British Arctic Air Route Expedition, who volunteered to remain alone during the winter at a central station on the Greenland icecap to make meteorological observations.

It is Capt. Raynor's plan to charter an airplane fitted with skis and especially equipped for landing on ice or snow and search for Courtauld from the air. Capt. Raynor left London last night for Norway.

Cardinal's Condition Believed Hopeless

ROME, April 27.—(AP.)—The condition of Cardinal Pompilj, vicar general of Rome and diocesan pastor of the famous Church of St. John Lateran, was declared by his physicians today to be hopeless.

It was said the cardinal was not expected to live more than a few days. He has been seriously ill since the middle of last week.

R. C. A. BEATEN IN TRUST SUIT

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today denied the petition of the Radio Corporation of America for review of low court decisions holding that it violated the Clayton anti-trust law in requiring licensed radio receiving set manufacturers to purchase R. C. A. tubes for the initial set.

The case involves over 25 radio companies, licensed to use the patents of the Radio Corporation, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Companies and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and also tube manufacturers.

The suit arose when the De Forest Radio Company sued to have the license agreement declared invalid. It won both before District Judge Morris, of Delaware, and the Third Court of Appeals.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 27.—(AP.)—The University of California is to learn all about twins from 750 pairs located in the vicinity. A survey will be made on such things as the effect of heredity in twinning, whether twins are harder to rear, whether they should be dressed alike.

TRIANGLE PLOT LETTERS BARED

NEW YORK, April 27.—(INS.)—Letters exchanged between Mrs. Amy Conlin, 37, and James De Pew, 22, were to be read today before the grand jury in Queens, as indictments were sought against the couple on charges of felonious assault on the woman's husband, John T. Conlin.

Conlin, a lodge building caterer, was shot in the back as he entered the apartment house where he lived, and robbed of $63. The district attorney said he would contend that the holdup and shooting were plotted by Mrs. Conlin and De Pew and that a plan to wed, similar to that in the Snyder-Gray case, had been made by them. De Pew, police said, admitted shooting Conlin, but claimed it was "accidental."

Police disclosed that in one of the letters, Mrs. Conlin addressed De Pew as "Dear Daddy." Conlin was in a critical condition in a hospital today.

FORMER PIRATE FALLS 3 FLOORS

COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—(AP.)—After falling three stories from his window in the Seneca Hotel here, Percy Lee Jones, 32, Columbus Red Bird southpaw, was in a hospital here today with injuries that will keep him from baseball for the balance of the season.

Physicians said his condition was fairly good, although the former National Leaguer suffered a wrenched back, broken leg and fractured ankle.

The fall occurred last night while he was talking to Arthur Reinhart, recently released to St. Joseph in the Western League by the Red Birds. Reinhart said Jones appeared to lose his balance, falling backward to an alley below.

Jones was obtained last June by the Columbus club from the Pittsburgh Pirates. He formerly pitched for the Chicago Cubs and the Boston Braves.

Albasini's son and Signor Ermanno were also taken into custody on the same accusation. Authorities revealed nothing as to their allegedly illegal activities.

PUPILS START CLEAN-UP DRIVE

An army of Pittsburgh school children, 150,000 strong, today started work in co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce in its annual "clean-up and paint-up" campaign. Students of Langley High School and many other public and parochial schools were organized in campaign groups to visit elementary schools and private homes in the interest of the campaign.

The children are to carry to their homes the Chamber's request that all homes and grounds be given a spring cleaning. During the next two weeks, a concerted effort will be made by the children to have vacant lots cleaned up, rubbish removed and fences repaired. Prize cups will be awarded the school groups accomplishing the most work.

SEXTON ROBBED IN CHURCH

R. C. Jackson, 62, sexton of the Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Arch and West North Diamond streets, was attacked, knocked unconscious and robbed in the church early today, he reported to North Side police.

Jackson said his assailant was a youth he knew as Bill Miller, who had been eating at the church's charity kitchen for the past 10 days.

Miller, Jackson said, came to the church this morning earlier than usual, offering to help the sexton with his work.

In a room at the rear of the main auditorium, Jackson said, Miller strangled him into unconsciousness and took a ring from his finger. The sexton's watch and about $10 in his pocket were not taken.

Queen of Siam Shopping —And How She Buys!

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP.)—Queen Rambhai Barni of Siam now has 55 new pairs of gloves, 78 pairs of stockings and 13 pairs of shoes, purchased during her shopping trip on Fifth avenue last week.

Her majesty's bill in one store was $928.

The new gloves are: 42 pairs of four-button slip-ons, in black, rose beige, eggshell and tan; six pairs of 12-button pink suede, six pairs of 16-button ivory suede, and one pair of 16-button pink suede. The prices ranged from $5.50 to $10 a pair.

The stockings are all 100-gage chiffon, size 8, and most of them are black. They cost from $4.50 to $7.50 a pair.

The highest price her majesty paid for shoes was $27.50 for a pair of custom-made black alligator opera pumps. Teh others ranged downward to $15.50. She wears a 3B.

The Queen of Siam needs lots of clothes of many kinds, it would seem from a description of her activities by Raymond B. Stevens, advisor of foreign affairs to the Siamese government. He said:

"She presides over an electric-lighted, electric-refrigerated household. One day, clad in modern sports garb, she may be speeding down the River Menam on her husband's new boat. The next day, seated in ceremonial robes on a gilded throne on a carved oaken barge, she may be propelled up the same river by a score of silver paddles in a formal religious ceremony."

INDUSTRY GAINS CITED HERE IN U. S. REPORT

Decrease in Unemployment Noted; Shenango Valley Conditions Improving

An increase in industrials and slight decrease in unemployment in the Pittsburgh district is shown in the March survey of the United States Department of Labor, made public today. An improvement in employment conditions was reported from the iron and steel districts, large orders for cars being received by plants in McKees Rocks, Butler and the Monongahela Valley.

Further expansion in structural steel shops and boatbuilding yards, which showed some improvement, is predicted.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT

Less unemployment exists in the Shenango Valley than in many months. Tin plate mills in Warren operated at a fairly high rate, and 400 men were put back to work when a blast furnace and ingot mold plant resumed at Sharpsville. Two hundred were recalled at a cement plant in New Castle.

Tin plate mills in McKeesport operated at capacity with normal forces employed, and it was announced by officials that no immediate change in the schedule is expected.

MILL ACTIVITY

At Donora steel mill activity continued somewhat below normal. Employment showed a slight improvement in the tin plate mills of Monessen, but the foundries and steel and wire mills operated below normal with reduced forces. An increase was observed in the glass business.

A slight improvement also was noted in the plants manufacturing electrical equipment and machinery, but employment in the bituminous coal fields and the coke industry was irregular. Part time employment for 1,100 men was provided by the Allegheny County Employment Association.

RAIN BREAKS UP HOOVER PARTY

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP.)—President Hoover's third consecutive week-end away from the White House gave him an experience he probably will not forget soon. He rode for about 36 hours on the waters of the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay and was thoroughly drenched in a rain that broke up the celebration climaxing the trip.

The President and his official party left Washington Saturday afternoon for Cape Henry, Virginia, to participate in ceremonies commemorating the three hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of the landing of English colonists. From the capital to Little Creek Inlet he rode aboard the Sequoia, Commerce Department inspection boat.

Then he took a train for the remaining few miles to Cape Henry, meeting Gov. Pollard, of Virginia, and others for the ceremonies.

As Bishop A. C. Thomson, of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia, began the opening prayer, a torrential rainstorm burst. Hatless, the President sought shelter beneath a canvas, but the wind drove the water under the covering.

ANTI-BLUE LAW, POLICE BILLS NEAR TEST

Supporters of Musmanno's Measure Line Up to Fight Pinchot Coal, Iron Plan

HARRISBURG, April 27.—Coal and iron police legislation and Blue Law repeal action hold the center of the stage this week as the state Legislature prepared to resume sessions tonight.

Supporters of the Musmanno police measure lined up to renew their battle against the administration supporters of the rival Pinchot bill in the Senate, while the blue law repeal forces were ready to continue their battle in the House.

ADJOURNMENT DATE

Meanwhile, a final date for the adjournment of the General Assembly is expected to be decided this week, with May 28 looked upon as the likely choice. This is more than a month later than that of two years ago.

The Musmanno coal and iron police bills, with the pressure of organized labor behind them, may emerge from the Senate's Judiciary General Committee this week, after a month's delay.

Likewise, the Deitrich resolution, which would provide for a commission to investigate company towns in the coal regions and report to the Legislature next term, also in committee, is expected to get attention during the week.

LABOR DELEGATIONS

Delegations from the State Federation of Labor called on the Judiciary Committee and Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, asked Gen. Edward Martin, state Republican chairman, to see that the bills reached the Senate floor and got attention.

Meanwhile, the administration's Wilson bill, expressing Gov. Pinchot's idea of the coal and iron police abolition, will likely reach a test vote in the House. Considerably amended, it emerged from committee last week and will be on third reading Tuesday.

OPPOSES HEARING

Representative Tom Wilson, sponsor of the administration measure, is exerting his influence against a public hearing on his bill, which others are said to want. He is also attempting to hold the Musmanno bill in the Senate committee until next Monday night, when the Wilson bill, he hopes, will reach that committee after passage through the House.

The Coyne constitutional amendment providing a metropolitan charter for Allegheny County when and if the majority of voters in the majority of the municipalities of the county approve it, also will be before the Senate for final passage.

BLUE LAW BATTLE

The Denning bill to permit counties to decide whether Sunday baseball will be allowed, will be up on first reading in the House tonight and probably on final passage Wednesday. Another bitter battle is expected on this bill, with the result in doubt. An effort to amend the Schwartz milk bill to legalize Sunday baseball, failed in the House by two votes last week, and modificationists were planning to make another effort to expand its amendments to the blue laws this week.

The House will consider on final passage the Dunn bill prohibiting state police from entering an area affected by strikes and labor disputes except upon express order of the governor.

NEGLECT IS LAID TO P. S. C.

"The greater part of the evidence on rate matters was secured from reports of utility companies filed with the Public Service Commission. For some reason the commission has apparently paid scant attention to these reports which are required to be filed regularly. This also shows that not only the consumer, but the investor in public utilities has been neglected by the commission. While the commission has no power to forbid security issues, it has the power to certify them to the attorney general and to give publicity to them.

SCORES DEFENSE

"The public utility companies have long attempted to meet the charge that their rates are too high with the pleas that their costs are also high and their profit margins accordingly low. They have almost made it appear that their enterprise is a form of charity carried on in a spirit of self-sacrifice for the benefit of the community with a fine disregard of the fair return and monopolistic privileges enjoyed. The evidence at the hearings, it seems to me, has cut the ground from under this argument."

Moore went on to explain the need of regulation and more stringent laws to correct utility practices which need it, pointing out the ineffectiveness of the present regulation.

It is thought that the observers on the committee, Father James R. Cox, H. R. Crawford and Morris L. Cooke may add a brief report and that Representatives Elwood Turner, of Delaware County, and Frank L. Bowers, of Fayette County, may present a minority report.

LAST 3 DAYS!

OF THE GREATEST FURNITURE SALE IN THE HISTORY OF PITTSBURGH

This generation will never see another sale like this sale! Act quickly, while there is still time to buy at the greatest price-cuts Pittsburgh has ever witnessed! Time is pressing, and we must dispose of everything by Thursday night.

PICKERING'S SAY... GOOD-BYE!

Quitting The Furniture Business Forever

The time is set! Next Thursday will be the final day of this great close-out, the finish in this famous old store at 10th and Penn. What a sale this has been! Furniture men told us it would take months to dispose of our enormous stocks. Instead—it has been a matter of just a little more than two weeks!

But we gave the people of Pittsburgh the kind of values they would expect from Pickering's. We have simply told them the truth, shut our eyes to costs, and soon will be ready to close our doors.

And when we turn the key for the last time, when we close our books and write "Finis" on a career that began in 1872, may it be said that we have kept the faith, that we have served unselfishly, always giving more than we received. And, of more importance still, that the name "Pickering's" will ever stand as a landmark in the merchandising annals of this great city, impressed deep in the hearts and lives of the thousands who have called this store home.

Again let us say "Thank you, Pittsburgh—and good-bye."

One hundred per cent increase in the value of building permits issued in Mt. Lebanon last month over the same period of 1930 has been reported by township officials.

A total of 30 permits for building construction to cost $230,286 were issued last month. In March, 1930, only 11 permits were given for buildings to cost $115,425. February, 1931, showed a slight decline as compared with the corresponding month of 1930, but another gain was recorded in January, 1930.

LOANS JUMP

Confidence of the investing public was worth $131,773,609 to building and loan associations in the depression year 1930, according to H. F. Cellarius, secretary-treasurer of the United States Building and Loan League. This amount represents the increase in building and loan assets last year in the 36 states which have reported thus far to league officials compiling the statistics on building and loan growth.

Cellarius' report points out that the 12 states not yet announcing their 1930 assets include Pennsylvania, Ohio and New Jersey, where the building and loan holdings are normally largest, and on these grounds predicts a total increase in the resources of home financing institutions much greater than the figures now available show.

Applications for building permits follow:

ACTORS SEEN IN HOMES BY TELEVISION

NEW YORK, April 27.—Television emerged from the laboratory into the home via Fifth avenue last night.

Celebrating the formal opening of the first sound-and-sight synchronized broadcasting station, W2XCR, the sponsors put on a two-hour program of famous stage stars and notables.

An invited audience of newspaper critics and radio engineers saw the program projected on screens erected in Aeolian Hall, a half mile away. The program was also picked up by owners of television sets all over the East, it was indicated by telephone and telegraph messages to the studio.

NEARER PERFECTION

Engineers present agreed that the demonstration showed that television was many steps nearer perfection than it was a year ago, when Hearst Newspaper Radio Service staged New York's first television show.

Hearst Newspapers Radio Service was one of the sponsors of last night's initial program, and star writers and cartoonists of the Hearst newspapers were among the features.

Among those appearing on the program were Ted Cook, "Coo Coos;" Milt Gross, "Dave's Delicatessen" and "Count Screwloose;" Harry Hershfield, "Abie the Agent;" Russ Westover, "Tillie the Toiler," and Nell Brinkley. They appeared in a King Features televised revue with Clark Kinnaird, eastern director of Hearst radio service, as master of ceremonies.

APPARATUS COSTLY

Regular television programs synchronized on sound with Station WGBS will be put on the air nightly from the new Fifth avenue studios of W2XCR. Although the station had its formal opening last night, the first demonstration of the improvements made in television art by the erection of the new station was made Friday night when Hearst Radio Service put on a program with George McManus, of "Bringing Up Father" fame as star.

The new station represents an investment of more than $100,000 in new equipment, it is stated by Delbert E. Replogle, vice president of Jenkins-Deforest Television Corporation, who developed the new apparatus. New discoveries and improvements made in the last three months necessitated the junking of all the pioneer equipment.

Kullman broke his leg while attempting a long drive on the links. His friend, A. L. Donohue, was driving him to the hospital in Kullman's car when it skidded and overturned, and Donohue was arrested. Meanwhile the thief made off with the luggage.

HUNT FOR FIVE LOST OFF YACHT

OAKLAND, Cal., April 27—(AP.)—A search was pressed today for five prominent and wealthy Piedmont residents believed to have drowned with the capsizing of their motorboat off Goat Island. Airplanes augmented shore patrols.

The 16-foot outboard motor launch, Chickie, was found floating bottom up in San Francisco Bay yesterday. It was discovered by John A. Johnson, tugman, who towed the craft to the Oakland Yacht Club.

The missing, for whom hope was virtually abandoned, are Gilbert Loken, Jr., San Francisco stock broker; Mrs. Mary Loken, his wife; Vari E. Jefferson, Oakland insurance man; Mrs. Lydia Jefferson, his wife, and Sheridan Hubbard, 34, manager of an Oakland building and loan company.

They had attended a dance at the yacht club Saturday night and Hubbard invited them for a cruise.

Four airplanes and two Coast Guard cutters, besides privately owned motor craft, searched the bay without results.

PLAN TO HUSH DEMPSEY RIFT

RENO, Nev., April 27.—(Universal)—From the attorneys of Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor comes the carefully phrased statement that while a reconciliation is impossible their divorce will be serene and devoid of lurid charges.

The legal champions of the former holder of the world's heavyweight title and the exotic screen actress declined to disclose whether a property settlement is being effected and who will sue who and where.

Emerging from one of a series of huddles, they did reveal, however, that "progress is being made towards a settlement of some of the legal problems which will avoid any bitterness or unnecessary controversy."

Which may or may not have any bearing on previous declarations by the actress that if there was going to be a divorce she would get it, and the crisp statement of her attorney that if the Manassa Mauler "thinks" he effected a property settlement with his wife months ago he "is due for a great surprise."

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Be a Bit Selfish If You Want Appreciation

Is it up to the working daughter to do household chores after office hours—while Mamma lolls around and takes things easy?

Betty Sue thought it wasn't. Her Mamma—a husky, healthy lady of 40 summers—thought it was.

Perhaps you thought Betty was wrong . . . thought that she "owed it to her dear mother" to carry Ma's job as well as her own. But, if you did, Annie is certainly NOT with you. For she, too, had to do housework overtime. And what she thanks of that system makes a blistering broadcast!

Favors Selfishness

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I just can't keep still! That Betty Sue, the working girl who had to do all the house cleaning at home, is my reason. I know just how she feels, and I know that she is right, because my own personal experience in that regard has been a bitter one.

"Married now, and in my own home, and having had time to think and to view things with mature judement, it is my earnest hope that you will do everything in your power to impress on girls like Betty Sue how foolish it is to be too 'unselfish' at home.

"Personally, I can't remember the time when I didn't 'help around the house' . . . no matter how tired I was after my own day's work was done. I even darned stockings for the entire family (six of them) and cleaned on Saturday's when I was still in grammar school. Then I went to work as a stenographer in an office downtown when I was only 16 . . . and still kept on helping at home. And was it appreciated? I'll say it wasn't!

Is Unappreciated

"Some time ago a break occurred with my family and my own mother, whom I have helped when I was almost too tired to move, actually had the gall to tell me that I was the 'most self-centered person on earth,' and repeatedly asked me what I had ever done for her. That's gratitude!!

"I couldn't begin to enumerate the little things . . . not to mention the big ones . . . that I have done for her. Worked hard; gave her gifts on special occasions; retired often at night so exhausted that I could hardly sleep when I got there; spending Saturday afternoons, evenings and Sundays doing things for her. Ye gods! When I think of it I could scream! And just once in my life did I call my mother from the office, and ask her if she would wash a chemise for me! And she asks me 'what I have ever done?'

"Has she ever thanked me for what I've done for her? Not she! Perhaps six times in my life she has mentioned that she appreciated some little thing.

"Of course, she is naturally undemonstrative . . . but when you do so much, naturally you take it for granted people give you credit for it . . . and you don't expect to get kicked and yelled at and called a shirker!

"True, you don't exactly do those things for thanks. I know I didn't. But it hurts when they're not appreciated. You think, even if nothing is said, that folks do think you've done your part.

"So it was like a bolt from the blue when Mother asked me 'what I had ever done for her?' I just can't get over it. But I guess, after all, it's what I might have expected. I guess that when people are willing to let you do so much, they're likely to expect you to do even more.

"Anyway, I say, don't kill yourself for anyone. They won't appreciate it. And you'll just be wearing yourself out when you ought to be saving your strength to do justice to your own battles.

Commands Respect

"The funny part of it is that my mother seemed able enough to find time and inclination to be a mother to a number of other girls . . . but her only daughter didn't need any 'mothering,' apparently.

"I have a lovely home of my own now and a husband who is kindness itself . . . and at last I am learning to be a little 'selfish.' You have no idea how much nicer life is when a doormat begins to acquire that vice!

"So stand up for yourself, Betty Sue! Stand on your rights and make 'em respect you!

"ANNE."

Well, what's your hunch on the Working Daughter's duty to the Housekeeping Mamma?

Should—or shouldn't she—be expected to do the chores after office hours?

Household Hints

Try cutting the thread on a slant when threading a needle, as it will point the thread and make the operation much simpler.

To draw out hidden insects from cabbage, lettuce, cauliflower, greens, etc., when preparing them for cooking or for the table let them stand in cold water for one hour before using.

Fay King Finds Inspiration in Walking With People on Their Way to Work

DO NOT PRETEND TO BE AS DUMB AS YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL WHEN LOOKING FOR WORK
THE BUSINESS GIRLS OF TODAY PROVE THAT WHERE THERE IS BEAUTY THERE CAN BE BRAINS ALSO SECRETARIES ARE OFTEN AS EFFICIENT AS THEY ARE ATTRACTIVE FAY KING

By FAY KING

In the bright early morning I like to walk along with the crowds of workers on their way to offices, stores and factories.

There is something very stimulating and inspiring in this great force of energy and ability that is the life pulse of the city.

It is the workers who give that vital force to the city that is missing on Sundays and holidays.

And one has only to mingle with the morning throngs, or the evening throngs as they leave their places of work to see that where there is beauty there can also be brains.

A bright mind is a great aid to beauty.

How soon the bored and listless lose what beauty they have. They need mind, not massages.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The Party Begins Trip to the Farmhouse

Dicky's changed voice betrayed that he was no longer angry about my journey out of the city of which Edith had told him. But I knew that was because he had guessed my destination, and that he naturally would expect me to tell him why I had gone to see dying Robert Savarin when we had only just come from the famous artist's home.

"Yes, you've guessed it, Dicky," I said softly, "but will you forgive me if I don't tell you just now why I went. Some time I shall tell you the whole thing, but just now all I am privileged to say is that I went up there to carry out one of the last wishes of a dying man, one to which Lillian could not attend."

"I'm not trying to horn in on your secrets," he said, and though he grinned at me as he said it, there was a hint of sullenness in his tone.

I went up to him and putting my hands on both sides of his head, said coaxingly:

"It's Christmas time, Dicky. Don't be cross."

He caught me to him roughly with a stifled little exclamation and kissed me. Then he held me off, looking at me with eyes that held a smile but also a glint of something sterner.

"Don't count too much on that little thing," he said.

My pulses jumped, then slowed, for there was that in both his voice and smile that made me apprehensive for the tax that I must put on Dicky's patience during the Christmas vacation, when, as Lillian had pointed out, I would have my last chance to placate Philip Veritzen, and to reconcile him to his son's betrothal to Mary. Dicky had been unusually tractable through Mary's party, and I was most grateful to him for the adroit manner in which he had made it appear that he had only gratitude for Mr. Veritzen's munificence in the matter of flowers, and that there was real hospitality behind the Christmas dinner invitation which he had extended to the elder man. But I was frankly afraid of what his reaction might be if he should happen to stumble upon the interview with my employer which I knew I must stage before Christmas was over.

The apprehension remained with me during the night, robbing me of at least an hour of sadly needed sleep, and it accompanied me in the journey down to the farm which we all took the next day. There were four cars in our party, two belonging to the Brixtons the big car of the Underwoods and the one which Dicky had driven into the city. The Brixton coachman drove one car with the two maids and a good share of the hand luggage, while the rest of us, 15 in all, were crowding into the other three cars when Philip Veritzen came up to us.

"Won't some of you good people take pity on me?" he asked. "I have a big car here and no one to share it for the eastward journey."

It was the first intimation I had had that he meant to go down to the east end of the island so soon and for a second I was nonplused, for though his words had been addressed to all of us, he was looking directly at me. But Lillian saved me from answering.

"You're the answer to a matron's prayer, Phil," she told him, putting a hand possessively on his arm. "I've been dying for a comfortable chat with Helena ever since we've been in the city. Now we can sit back in that lovely car of yours and imagine ourselves in rocking chairs on a summer hotel veranda. Come on, Helena, those youngsters of yours don't need your chaperonage. Madge will look after them."

She detached Helena Brixton from her crowd of young people and coolly took seats with her in Mr. Veritzen's car. There was nothing in the great producer's courtly manner toward either of his two guests to indicate that he was chagrined. But Harry Underwood gave a low ribald chuckle as I stood for a second by his car before getting into our own with Noel and Mary and Dicky driving.

"Wasn't that a super-heated one, though?" he demanded. "It takes Lil to send 'em sizzling over the plate. He sure had a crust to imagine he could snaffle you for the homeward ride with Dicky in the offing. But he's nothing, if not chesty that lad."

I looked apprehensively toward Dicky wondering if he had heard his friend's pleasantry, or shared Harry's opinion of the motive behind Mr. Veritzen's invitation. I had not long to wait for my answer. I had hardly taken my seat beside him with Noel and Mary sitting close together in the rear seat, than he said from the side of his mouth:

"Lil saved that old lad a thrashing just now. I've been laying off him because he's so nearly senile, but by gum his white hairs 'hain't goin' to protect him much longer. If he pulls many more of these innocent appearing stunts, I'm 'just nacherally goin' to take grandpaw across my knee and spank him."

"Dicky!" I remonstrated as well as I could for laughing, for he was supremely ridiculous, as I knew he meant to be.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Tuberculosis "Frights" in Minor Irritations

There are many odd words and phrases used in medicine. For instance, "hemoptysis" is a medical word, meaning the spitting of blood. Hemoptysis is an important sign in disease. This symptom is often misleading and frequently it causes unnecessary worry and alarm.

Dr. Copeland

Most persons are under the impression that the presence of blood in the sputum is a sure sign of consumption. This belief has led to much mental worry and unrest. In all probability, the worry has been the real cause of ill health.

It is true that blood-tinged sputum is commonly seen in tuberculosis. However, it is well known that not all cases of early tuberculosis present this symptom. It is equally well known that all cases of blood-tinged sputum do not necessarily imply the present of tuberculosis.

Recently a man who was quite depressed and worried about his health, talked to me about his trouble. He had been told by several competent physicians that he was in perfect health. But he had noticed blood in his sputum for several months and had been coughing. He was quite convinced he had tuberculosis and that the doctors had overlooked something.

Careful examination revealed this man to have a slight sore spot in the back of the throat. When he expectorated the sputum was blood-tinged.

This is a frequent cause of hemoptysis. Chronic bronchitis, a sore throat or inflamed tonsils may cause a trace of blood in the sputum. Bleeding from a tiny sore in the nose is often confused with hemoptysis from lung disease.

This sign may well be ignored because it may be due to several things. I beg of you not to think you are a victim of tuberculosis if occasionally you cough up a little blood in your sputum.

If you think you have tuberculosis do not brood over it. Worry will not help the condition. Instead, go to your physician and have a thorough physical examination. This will determine whether or not you have the disease, and probably you have not.

Be guided by what your physician tells you. Follow his advice. Every individual should have a thorough physical examination twice a year. In this way, preventable diseases can be avoided.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Mascara can be used on the eyelashes as well as on the eyebrows. Dip the brush in water, pass over the cake of mascara, apply to the eyelashes as they rest on the first finger of the left hand.

When posing for a photograph, do not rouge the cheeks. Touch the eyebrows with mascara, outline the lips lightly with a rouge stick. Only the faintest film of powder is necessary. Rouged cheeks look thin and wan in a photograph. Sometimes worse than that.

A bunion is caused by the big toe being pushed inward against the other toes. When inflammation starts up, the twinging digit should have immediate attention. With women's shoes less full of feet than they have been in the past—women are wearing larger shoes—fewer femmes are afflicted with these torturing foot troubles.

When copper-colored hair goes brown at the roots, it can be brightened by a henna and peroxide pack. Get the genuine pure Egyptian henna, powdered. Mix three tablespoonfuls with a small quantity of boiling water and two teaspoonfuls of peroxide. Apply the paste to the roots of the hair with a brush, when the hair is dry and in need of the shampoo. Let remain on seven minutes; remove with warm soapsuds and rinse well.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, April 28

A very interesting and important day is forecast from the prevailing lunar configurations. There will be a removal of an old corroding and stagnating condition, making way for energetic expression and application to new enterprises. Excellent contracts should be made under this rulership, although personal projects are more encouraged than employment. Investment, speculation and all property interests are under fine impetus for gain. Personal affairs have a peculiar aspect.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a lively and eventful year, with old crystallized conditions removed to make way for much energetic attack on new projects. New business and contracts are in line, but employment is not so favorably aspected. Investment, speculation, property and ambitions generally meet progress and profit.

A child born on this day should be energetic, constructive, industrious and ambitious and should reach stable place through its own merits and diligence.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Remembering the Girl Friend's Friend's Birthday

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please straighten this tangle?

My girl friend and I have been friends for quite some time. We are going about steadily with two young men who have been friends since school days. The question is this:

My friend will soon have a birthday, and my girl friend feels that because we are such close friends, that it is all right for her to give him a gift. I told her that the proper thing for her to do is to send him a card. He'd appreciate that more. Which one is right?

READER.

Your social sense is sound. The girl should not give your friend a gift . . . the birthday greeting is in better form.

"Welcome Home" After a "Bon Voyage"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When sending flowers to a young lady who has come home from abroad, what would be appropriate to write on the card with the name? S. E.

Some greeting like "Welcome Home" or "Just a hint of how glad I am to have you back again" or "To greet you on your return home" or "Best wishes and friendliest greetings for your homecoming" or just "Greetings and best wishes"—depending on how well you know the young lady.

Enthusiastic Congratulations Are in Order

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

While visiting last summer, I met a young man who was hoping to graduate from college this year. We did not become very intimate friends, as I did not see him often. However, he told me that he had a heavy year and was afraid he might not be able to graduate. I assured him that if he worked well he would make his year. As he is to graduate this spring, I would like to send him a note to congratulate him on his success. If this is proper, what should be the nature of my note?

IRENE.

Since you gave him such a fine, high-hearted encouragement and spiritual cheers, your letter of congratulation to him can be an especially enthusiastic and congratulatory one. Write to him as you would talk with him about this achievement, not making your letter a bit stiff or formal, as congratulatory letters too often become. Tell him how happy you are at the good news of his coming graduation, of your wish that happiness and success will be his always, of your appreciation of how hard he must have worked to accomplish this fine result. Then the rest of your letter would naturally be a chatty, friendly letetr, of "this and that."

They were Domingo Salis, of 1018 Wylie avenue, and Peter Escoben, of 1524 Forsythe street.

Lieut. Thomas F. Gross testified he had arrested the three on Logan street yesterday. Escoben was caught after a chase of several blocks by the officer, and when searched he had $34 in his possession. Escoben told the court he had not been working for some time.

Police said Salis is a distributor in the Pittsburgh district for "doped" cigarets. Rodgers was held with the other two men.

Conley told detectives that he had walked across the street to buy some tobacco and forgot to return. Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren today said he had made information against Conley before Alderman George A. Anderson charging him with escape.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

THIS MORNING'S MAIL brings a very interesting yarn from Eddie. And since he asks that the central characters in this story remain anonymous, I shall be governed accordingly.

The man in this particular tale, let us say, bears the name of John Vincent. The name, after all, cannot possibly make any difference. For, since the advent of talking pictures, there must be many other cases very much like his.

John Vincent came to this country from Germany at the age of 8. When he was 13, he was playing in a nickelodeon. Playing the piano. Playing it to satisfy the patrons who tossed him dimes and drank beer as the reels were changed. Music was his god. This was not music—but it earned him a livelihood.

So there he played. On and on.

Let us skip now. Let's draw the curtain over a period of years and take a look at John Vincent at the age of 35. He has been married for three years and has a daughter who has just reached her first birthday. He has settled in a fairly large New Jersey town and is the featured organist of the finest movie house in the city.

John detested the sloppy playing of the modern day, but he gradually drifted into a state of self-satisfaction. The patrons of the theater greeted him by his first name and, on the side, he gave lessons to the children of the finest people in town. He had a nice wife, a happy child and—in a small way—fame. Many men are contented with much less than this. Why not John?

Suddenly, from out of a clear sky, came a startling change in the theater world. The talkies! Canned music was now to be installed. Everything was to be different. A revolutionary change was at hand.

John's two weeks' notice arrived. The management was sorry—but he would appreciate that they could do nothing. If they retained him, he would be nothing but an expensive liability. Very, very sorry.

Small consolation to John Vincent that hundreds of musicians all over the country were in a similar predicament. Here, for a number of years, he had built up a reputation and attempted to perfect his art. And now he and his work were to be supplanted. Not by a better man—but by canned music.

This was the only work that John had ever known. He began to hit the chutes. A sensitive soul, he wasn't strong enough to fight. He drank. He drank more. He drank more and more. He drank himself into a continual stupor.

His wife begged him to stop.

"You've been wonderful, dear," he cried. "I've been the happiest woman in the world since I married you. Let's fight this thing together. You and I and the kid.

"Don't let it best you, honey. Please. Please don't take another drink. We'll. . ."

He didn't let her finish. He pushed her out of his way and left the house. This time he stayed away for two weeks. When he finally came home, his wife was gone. And his daughter, too. Nothing left but a note.

"I have gone to work in N—— department store," it read. "I will come back to you any time you want me to, but I must earn enough money to live. Please take care of yourself. I still love you. When you want me, come for me."

John Vincent tore up the note. This was the final straw. He was too far gone now to realize that everything was his own fault.

In the neighborhood speakeasies he boys avoided him. He talked too much. He pitied himself too much. He was a pest.

To the party who gave me this story, he made just one statement.

"Never study music, kid," he said as he gripped the bar. "Look what I got out of it after years and years of slavery. Nothing, 'bslutely nothing!

"You know how I'm gonna die? No? Well, I'll tell you. They're gonna pick me up in the gutter, that's what. And I'm gonna be dead. How do you like that? Funny, eh?

"Music did it. Not real music. Canned music. Stupid canned music. I want another drink."...

John kept his word. He knew what was coming. And it came. They found him in an alley some two weeks later—dead. The coroner's report was brief and to the point.

"Death," it read, "caused by excessive use of alcoholic stimulants and undue exposure."

In an inner pocket they found his wallet. It contained a picture of his little daughter, two keys and the card of a famous music publisher. On the card were a few engraved words.

"The Study of Music," were the words, "Exalts Life."....

LEAGUE COURT CONTROLLED BY GENEVA

Duty to Nations Association Rules All Negotiations Of Judges at The Hague

This is the first of four articles on the League Court, now in session at The Hague. Today's describes the Peace Palace in which the Court sits and the tribunal's dependence on the League of Nations.

By KENNETH CLARK,
Universal Service.

THE HAGUE, April 27.—Two heroic figures, perched high on the wall of the judicial chamber, look down on the sessions of the League Court here.

One represents Justice, the other Truth.

Justice has her eyes closed. Her face is sad.

Truth's eyes, likewise closed, are pointed away from the court.

The court is quartered in the Peace Palace which Andrew Carnegie built of red brick, with a jagged, steep-pitched roof of slate. The building is a massive structure, set in a sprawling garden. It resembles a glorified court house which the happy citizens, filled with civic pride, used to erect in the boom towns of the American plains during the '80s.

PART OF LEAGUE

Inside the building is cold, ornate, funereal. People tread the corridors silently. Conversation is in hushed tones.

Here, in this atmosphere of painful stilliness, the court meets and works and, after its fashion, renders judgments, or, continuing its function as the legal department of the League at Geneva, gives advisory opinions to the council or assembly.

There's no mistaking here that the court is bag and baggage of the league. Court officials are in constant communication with Geneva. The money comes from Geneva. The authority is derived from Geneva. In short, the court could not exist a day without Geneva, its master. And the judges, discussing advisory opinions in private conversations, speak always of the duty they owe Geneva.

The courtroom is cathedral-like in size and adornments. Stained glass windows dull the brightness of the spring days.

COMFORT FOR JUDGES

Along the bench, covered with a green and gold cloth, are piles of books and documents. The chairs are large and comfortable. The judges appreciate that convenience. They recline, half dozing, as counsel plead before them. Voices roll to the vaulted ceiling and are lost.

Not all the work is done in public—far from it. Private sittings are held in a smaller room on the floor above. There an electrical system is used to carry the words of the interpreters. All the judges don't know French and English, the League's official languages, so earphones are provided to enable the judges to receive an immediate translation of their colleagues' remarks. Formerly an interpreter used to stand behind the judge and whisper in his ear.

Offices are on the far wing of the building. Each judge has a cubby hole. The offices stretch along in a row, like so many stalls in a stable.

The judges complain the League has been stingy in not providing more comfortable quarters.

(Tomorrow's article will deal with the personnel of the court bench.)

Escape Plot Bared By Secret Letters

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 27.—(AP.)—Eight letters written in lemon juice were in the hands of Warden R. E. Davis, of the Utah State Penitentiary, today, as he probed a plot to free 21 prisoners.

The secret missives, addressed to a trusty, were intercepted and treated with heat after Warden Davis had been advised by Oregon prison officials that Wallace Crews, one of their prisoners, had been told of a plan to dynamite the walls in a letter from Hollywood, Cal.

Ambitious Gypsy Held in Death Plot

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP.)—Tene Bimbo, whose ambition, police say, is to become ruler of all the gypsies in the United States, was brought back from New York yesterday to face a charge of trying to eliminate Angelo Nickels, one of his competitors.

Bimbo, police say, produced $250 to pay the gunmen, but unfortunately for him the two men he selected to do the work turned out to be policemen and he left in a hurry for New York, where he was arrested.

GRACE MOORE, DEL STAIGERS ENTERTAIN ON RADIO PLAY BILL

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

If it is really true that gentlemen prefer blondes we have a very good example tonight in Grace Moore, guest artist on WJAS at 8:30. Grace is not only blonde, young and beautiful, but she has achieved a diversified singing success in grand opera, concert stage and sound films . . . If you enjoyed seeing her with Lawrence Tibbett in "The New Moon," just close your eyes tonight and enter the realm of fancy as she sings "The Lovely Hour" . . . The Hawaiian Islanders on KDKA at 8:30 were brought to this country by Henry Ford . . . The "Evening in Paris" feature, WJAS at 9:30, steps out with Del Staigers, cornetist . . . Douglas Stanbury, familiar to millions as the baritone of Roxy's Gang, sings on the Theater Party, KDKA at 11:15.

Amos 'n' Andy "go Broadway" this Friday in the New York Paramount . . . and next week appear with Dave Rubinoff at a Brooklyn playhouse . . . If they click, there's a long-term theatrical contract ahead.

QUESTION A DAY:

I like "Cecil and Sally." Are they Pittsburgh actors?—Kathryn L., Koppers Building.

Answer—This is an electrical transcription or phonograph recording made in San Francisco and broadcast locally by WCAE. John Patrick and Helen Troy play and act the parts.

POOR MAURICE! We have had several uncomplimentary letters about the playboy of Paris. If he performed only once a year it would be enough, thinks Otto Heider, of North Braddock, while P. A. P., of Roscoe, Pa., says "he should pay NBC for the privilege of using up good time on the air."

STUDIO LIGHTS

Guy Lombardo may strike Pittsburgh on his tour to begin Tuesday, May 5.

Harry W. (Hack) Wilson, NBC engineer and radio mimic, is doing a swell job for Arthur Bagley on the morning health exercises via WCAE. Bagley was operated on for appendicitis.

Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, brings Laurence Stallings, author of "What Price Glory" and "The Big Parade," to the KDKA audience this Friday at 10 o'clock.

Eighty percent of folks who hear the Soups Orchestra and Lew Conrad are housewives, says Andy Sannella.

J. L. Kaufman, manager of WCAE, has been appointed state manager of the Fifth National Radio Audition . . . . and Mrs. Thomas K. Cree, of Pittsburgh, has been reappointed chairman of Western Pennsylvania auditions.

WJAS fans are to hear George Bernard Shaw discuss his play, "Saint Joan" and "Joan of Arc," on Saturday, May 30 . . . . direct from London.

The cigar company that boasts "only 20 words of advertising" in their radio copy has been kind enough to send us a sample continuity. Good. We find that we were wrong in saying that the 20 words were preceded by 73 words . . . actually there are 82 words before the first onslaught and 35 words before the final salvage. In all, 157 words. Pie on somebody!

* * *

Speaking in defense of the song, "Just a Gigolo," a West Virginia professor recently remarked that there would be many gigolos in America in the next 20 years.

All of which prompted someone to write KDKA:

"Please send me a copy of Prof. ———'s book, 'How to Be a Gigolo.'"

Homer Rodeheaver and Bert Smyers, district governor of the thirty-third district, Rotary Club of America, are to appear before a KDKA microphone tomorrow night at 10:15.

A. L. E., of Beeler street, wants to ride the construction car across the new Westinghouse Bridge when KDKA decides to put on that special stunt we suggested some months ago . . .

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., widow of the former president, is scheduled to speak over the Columbia network Wednesday, May 6, at 1:45.

And the Prince of Wales and Prime Minister James Ramsay MacDonald are oversea speakers booked by Columbia for May 21 and May 23.

KQV has added an extra hour to its schedule by arrangements with WSMK, Dayton.

The COLONIAL TELLER

WHICH SHALL IT BE? BONDS? STOCK? BOTH?

Colonial Official Tells Differences Between Investments.

By F. A. MONTGOMERY,
Assistant Manager, Bond Department, The Colonial Trust Co.

It is a very difficult task for many who have funds for either permanent or temporary investment to decide upon the character of their investments. There are three types of securities that an investor can purchase. They are common stock, preferred stock and bonds. Of course, there are other divisions of these classes, but these are the main groups.

The owner of common stock in a company is a partner of the company and shares in its surplus earnings. When the company's earnings are large he may receive large dividends; when the earnings are small, the common stock dividends are reduced or omitted. In other words, he does not receive a fixed income.

A preferred stockholder is also a partner in the company, though preferred stocks usually have a fixed income. The rate of income is based upon the market price of the stock. There are a great many companies that have a record of earnings that make this class a stable and safe investment.

Bond Holder Not a Partner.

On the other hand, a bondholder is not a partner in the company, but is a creditor of it. The company must pay him interest on his bonds at a fixed rate every six months and must repay him and the other bondholders at a certain specified time.

It is advisable that an investor should have, if possible, all three classes of securities so that his investment is diversified. A person who derives an income from business can afford to carry a larger proportion of stocks in his investment account than a person who is dependent upon the income received from investments.

Buying securities is like buying anything else—you get only what you pay for. If an investor would remember this when offered some great bargain he might save himself a great deal of money. The price of all securities is determined by three things—safety, marketability and return.

Low Return Bonds Safest.

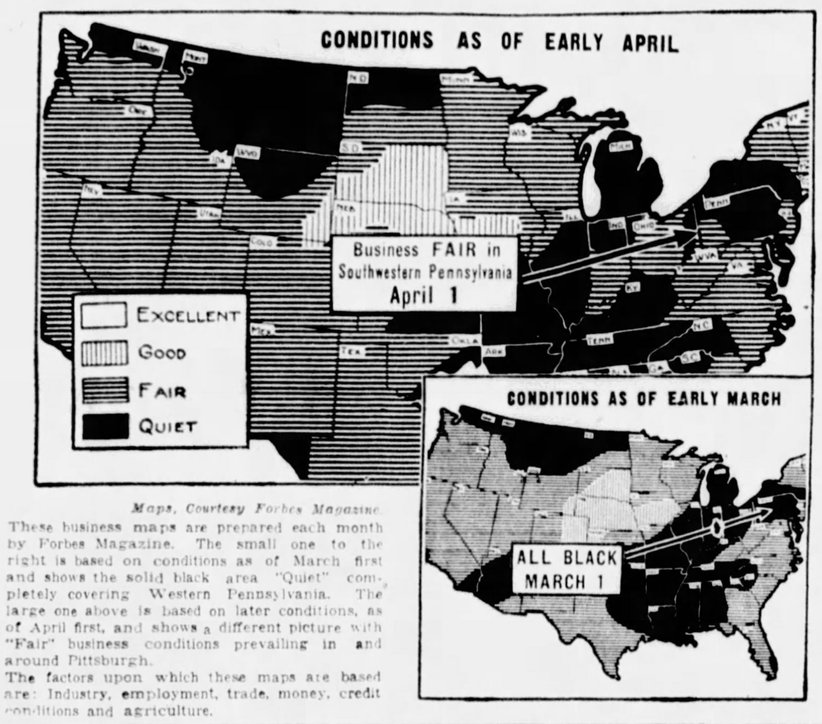
If a bond is safe and a number are sold every day, you must be satisfied with a low return. An example of this is Liberty Bonds. You know they are safe, and you know that they can readily be sold. Here you have two of the three requisites; therefore, if you sacrifice anything it must necessarily be return.

If, on the other hand, a bond pays a high rate of return and is easily sold, there must be some question of the safety of the principal.

There are a number of bonds that are perfectly secure and pay a good rate of return. In this situation the purchaser must give up some of his marketability. This does not mean that the bond cannot be sold but simply means that it might take some time to dispose of it. Securities of the smaller industrial companies are usually in this class.

The safest plan is to obtain an authentic and reliable opinion regarding any security before it is purchased instead of after. The Colonial Trust Company has a statistical department that is at the disposal of its clients and friends and the officers of The Colonial are glad to have you consult with them regarding any of your investment problems.

Some Improvement of Conditions In Pittsburgh Shown in Noted Authority's Business Map



Maps, Courtesy Forbes Magazine.

These business maps are prepared each month by Forbes Magazine. The small one to the right is based on conditions as of March first and shows the solid black area "Quiet" completely covering Western Pennsylvania. The large one above is based on later conditions, as of April first, and shows a different picture with "Fair" business conditions prevailing in and around Pittsburgh.

The factors upon which these maps are based are: Industry, employment, trade, money, credit conditions and agriculture.

TRUST NEEDN'T TIE UP MONEY

False Impression Has Grown Up About Them.

Many people think that the creation of a "trust" means the tying up of principal for long periods of time. As a matter of fact, this is seldom the case in modern trusts, and this was pointed out by Kenneth Buffington, Trust Officer of The Colonial Trust Company, in a recent radio talk over KDKA.

"In early American days and until not many years ago," said Mr. Buffington, "a trust was used largely when there existed a special reason for holding back principal, such as in the case of a wayward son or when some person desired to perpetuate his memory by means of his possessions.

Meaning of "Trust" Has Changed.

"Today, the meaning of the word has changed and the trust idea has become a popular one. In any line of thought, one extreme may be as bad as another and many people now recognize that that principle applies equally to trust estates. It is not necessary, nor usual, in the creation of a trust to tie up principal so that its enjoyment is postponed for generations. The modern conception is to use a trust as a means of protection for beneficiaries and at the same time to permit the use of principal for their needs when necessary.

"In other words, the modern idea of trusts can be reduced to the word 'flexibility.' Such a trust affords a prompt and safe means of investment with full and ample powers for the use of principal to provide for the emergencies of the future, which none of us can foresee.

"In our experience, we deal both with trusts which follow the old idea and those which are in keeping with the present. Without going into detail, suffice it to say that a trust which is flexible permits the trustee to use principal in providing for the needs of beneficiaries, as effected through changed circumstances over a period of years, in an expeditious manner; whereas the rigid form of a trust ordinarily involves delay and special procedure, and at times the principal cannot be made available. The latter form of trust quite frequently proves unfortunate for the beneficiaries and may cause hardship. We are confronted with many situations affecting beneficiaries which could not possibly have been anticipated by the person who created the particular trust, but which we are able to solve by reason of the flexible character of the instrument under which we act.

Modern Trusts Have Dual Purpose

"The modern trusts, which can be created through a will or by various types of agreements made during one's lifetime are leaning more toward the dual purpose of protection and benefit as opposed to the old idea of building a wall around the principal. The degree of flexibility of a trust depends, of course, upon the plans and wishes of the person creating it, but it can be made so as to cover almost any general purpose."

Trust officers of The Colonial Trust will be glad to tell you how a trust could be developed to meet all the requirements of your particular situation.

Trip Around the World Made With Dime Bank

Local Dime - Savers Watch Missourians' Adventure.

One of the members of the Indefatigable Order of Dime-Trappers broke into print the other day. The Pittsburgh members of the Order read of his exploits with considerable interest. For this member "went around the world on a dime."

He is Oscar Bodenhausen of St. Joseph, Mo. He weighs just 248 pounds. He landed in Chicago recently in company with Dr. Thomas M. Paul, also of St. Joseph, and also a 248-pounder. When the Chicago reporters saw the 500 pounds of them sailing majestically through a railroad station, they were sure there must be a story here.

So there was. "We're just back from China, Japan and 24 other countries," said Bodenhausen. "Around the world on a dime."

You could see the reportorial ears pricking up. "On a dime?"

"The best part of it," said Bodenhausen, is that we still have the dime."

Started in 1910.

Then he explained. (You have to with reporters.) It seems that back in 1910 Bodenhausen was tucking a dime away into a slim dime bank and someone smiled broadly. Now Mr. Bodenhausen is not one to be smiled at that way. "You have no idea what you can accomplish with systematic saving of dimes," he said. "I'll bet you I can make that dime grow until it takes me around the world."

That started it. He took that dime out again and saved it as a pocket piece. That night, when he emptied his pockets on the dresser top before going to bed, there were four dimes among the change. He put every one into the dime bank. The next night there were five. Then six. Then four or five every night. And every single solitary dime he tucked carefully away in the dime bank and from there into his savings bank. Those deposits, increased by compound interest, grew to $2,500 and Bodenhausen and his friend set forth around the globe.

That was all news to the Chicago reporters and they broke forth into print about Mr. Bodenhausen. But to thousands of Pittsburghers it will not be news, but merely a confirmation of something they already know. For thousands of Pittsburghers are not only aware of what can be accomplished with systematic saving of money . . . they are actually using that system to accomplish many things that are as important, if not as spectacular, as making a trip around the world on dimes.

Dime Banks Popular.

The Colonial Trust Company has always been a favorite depositary for the Pittsburghers who make a habit of saving dimes. Thousands of dime banks are issued by The Colonial every year. Any week day sees scores of people going up to the tellers' windows with banks to be emptied of dimes and credited to their accounts. Those people have been saving that way to buy homes, to send their children to college, to build up savings funds for their sons or daughters, and for many other laudable purposes.

If you would like to join these thousands of Pittsburghers, drop in at The Colonial and get a dime bank. Several different styles to choose from. Or write for a copy of the booklet "How Much Do You Want" which tells how the steady saving of any given amount grow into sizeable totals.

Save $15.50 a Month And Get $1,000.00

Total Can Be Accumulated in Five Years of Saving.

You can save $1,000 in five years by depositing $15.50 a month at The Colonial Trust Company. Of course, a little more than $300 will be interest which The Colonial will add to your account.

You can save $1,000 in four years by saving $19.50 a month. Or you can do it in three years by deposits of $26.50 a month, in two years at $39.50 a week, and in one year by $19.00 a week.

TRUST HELPS WIFE SECURE MORE INCOME

Keeps an Estate Invested Continuously And Profitably.

If the insurance a man leaves for his family is not large enough to earn an income sufficient to support the family, what arrangements can the widow make which will keep the principal continuously invested and yet permit monthly deductions from the principal to augment the monthly income?

That is the question which many a widow is forced to face when her husband dies. Let us suppose that her husband left an estate of $35,000 insurance. Safely invested, it will provide an income of $150 a month. But the needs of the family may require a monthly income of $250 a month. If the widow is investing the money in securities she cannot keep selling a portion of them each month to obtain the extra hundred dollars. If she sells a $1,000 bond to obtain the extra hundred and keeps the balance on hand in cash, she suffers a loss in the earning power of the $900.

This is one of the many situations in which a Life Insurance Trust provides a solution that is not possible in any other way. If that $35,000 of insurance is placed with the Colonial Trust Company in trust, it will earn more than five per cent continuously—deductions can be made from the principal as needed to make up the necessary monthly income—and the remainder of the principal can be kept fully invested at full return.

Any officer of The Colonial Trust Company will be glad to discuss a life insurance trust with you. Write or call at 414 Wood street, Pittsburgh. A booklet describing the life insurance trust will be sent on request.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, April 27.—The wizards in the laboratories might give an ear to the broadcasters crying in the radio wilderness. The broadcasters, too, have something to say about television; something new and startling.

Here is Don Carney—your Uncle Don—declaring that television which would permit the broadcaster to see his audience is more badly needed by radio than television which permits the audience to see the broadcaster. Such a plan, he believes "would improve broadcasting 25 per cent over night."

Maybe so. Maybe the broadcasters could tell by the interest or the yawns of their listeners just how their warbling of "Just a Gigolo" was getting over.

Wakeful nights of theatrical managers at present are caused, 'tis said, by worry over television. Just how they are going to meet the competition of television is now giving the lords of the stage more concern than anything since Al Jolson's song, "Sonny Boy," echoed out of the Hollywood hills and started the talkies on their snowball roll to popular acclaim.

It seems to me they are unnecessarily anxious. They will adapt themselves to television as easily as they did to the talkies, by renting theaters to television producers, by providing television shows themselves. Nor do we believe they need to sigh over the possible passing of the stage as a medium of entertainment. They profess in their darkest moments to see in five years a definite end to theatrical production as we now know it. They are unduly pessimistic.

The stage would seem to be suffering from pernicious anemia. Theatrical entertainment is confined to a half-dozen cities. There is no longer a "road". Yet, in the process of evolution the stage—the legitimate stage—is now on a sounder, healthier basis than ever before. Its pulse is sure and steady. It has been forced to leave to the screen and to radio that which the screen and radio are infinitely better able, better equipped, to do.

The stage no longer attempts to reach all ages and mental conditions of amusement-lovers. It has become an adult form of entertainment, its more successful products appeal to the intellect as much as to the emotions. And it will maintain its present position, its present prestige, it seems to me, despite all the television between Schenectady and Sydney.

New York continues to find fun in the so-called sleepiness of Philadelphia. But if the microphones are to be believed New York has more respect for slumber than Philadelphia. It is New York that demands late at night its "slumber hours," its "moonbean hours" with their dreamy theme melodies of "Slumber Boat," "Sing Me to Sleep" and the like, while the rest of the country, Philadelphia included, clamor for jazz. And the hotter the jazz the better.

* * *

Maybe the medicos can explain it. Is there a doctor in the house? Is New York's love of somnolent music at 11 p. m. due to the feverish life that New Yorkers are believed to lead during daytime hours? Do dreamy tunes counteract the strenuous gold-digging of the day, the appalling waste of energy in attempting to get about the town, the jazzy activity of hanging to subway straps, of buffeting the traffic to reach Tony's basement door, of hearing a confusion of indescribable noises all day long?

GUNMAN FREE 3 YEARS TAKEN

MORRISTOWN, N. J., April 27.—(AP.)—James Nannery, fugitive from Sing Sing and once a member of the notorious Cunniffe-Rodgers gang in New York City, was back in prison today after three years of liberty.

He was captured by a "small-time" patrolman with a memory for faces and gave up without a struggle.

With a woman companion, Nannery drove into Dover, N. J., yesterday and made the mistake of parking in a space reserved for automobile buses. Patrolman Charles E. Ripley, who had intended merely to tell him to move out of the place, recognized him from photographs as he apparently ached.

While Ripley marched his prisoner through town the woman, Patricia Pearl Smith, drove off in the car, only to be captured later.

The automobile was a small arsenal. A loaded automatic was found beneath the dashboard, a revolver was hidden in each of the door pockets and a machine gun was stored under the rumble seat. Nannery himself carried a tear gas gun in his pocket.

Nannery has been sought since his escape from Sing Sing in July, 1928, where he was serving a sentence for participation in a holdup.

900 BOYS WILL COUNT TRAFFIC

More than 900 Boy Scouts have been enlisted to take part in the Pittsburgh traffic count Thursday, May 21, according to City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre and A. T. Benson, scout executive of Allegheny County Council West. Sixty-five prizes of Boy Scout equipment, troop awards and other honors have been offered to the boys who will take part.

The Scouts are to be divided into groups to cover various types of counts and parts of the city. Each group will have a Scout executive and city traffic planning supervisor and each intersection will be placed in charge of an older Scout according to the officials in charge.

Fillings and Collections

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Dentists have a new idea of collecting bills. They figure on dental service at flat rate of 20 dollars a year.

This is the system used by Chinese doctors. You pay him only when you are well. He manages to collect most of the year round.

Of course, if you haven't got a Chinese doctor, you don't pay him at all. But Americans are noted for their beautiful teeth in all seasons, in or out, night or day, rain or shine.

That's because our dentists are the best in the world and are 'way in advance of Europe in drilling, poking and giving elocution lessons to patients with their mouths full of polished hardware.

We once went to a dentist with a very bad tooth. He cleaned it out and rasped home a temporary filling concrete. We were supposed to come back a week later for a gold stuffing.

But with the pain gone we naturally forgot about it and stepped around gaudily for the next couple of years. And never paid for the temporary work. We just forgot that dentist like a bee overlooks a paper flower.

Then we decide to go to another dentist in another town to have the work completed. He bored out the concrete and fumbled around in the excavation. Then he said, "Oh, yeah?"

Well, it seems that the first dentist wasn't taking any chances. He has a note written on a cigaret paper, rolled it up and then inserted into the hollow tooth before covering it over with the cement.

All the note said was, "This work is not paid for."

If we had come back to him all would have been official. But he was experienced and was hep to folks who think temporary fillings are permanent. And knowing inhuman nature, he had prepared for the future.

That's using a hollow tooth for a postoffice.

Naturally, we had to pay the second dentist in advance. You can't sue a man for false arrest when you carry the incriminating documents right in your own face.

For a while we regarded the first dentist's tactics as unfair to organized mooching. Then we realized that a dentist takes more raps than any professional man living. We became as the worm that crawleth and finally paid him for the temporary filling.

Which not only eased our conscience but eliminated his steady and irritating ringing of our doorbell every Tuesday and Friday.

ROBBER GANG SUSPECT JAILED

Alleged Leader of Bandits Arrested in Philadelphia; Thugs Take Man's Clothes

The alleged leader of a bandit gang wanted here in connection with more than 40 holdups is under arrest in Philadelphia, according to word received by city detectives.

The prisoner, Anthony DeLucca, and his pal, George Lamari, of Pittsburgh, were arrested in an automobile DeLucca was alleged to have stolen from Harry Weisberg, of 1000 Fifth avenue, April 12, in Washington boulevard. Three members of the gang are now in the penitentiary serving 10 to 20-year terms, Lieut. Edward O'Rourke, of the automobile squad, said. Philadelphia police reported that DeLucca and Lamari were heavily armed when arrested.

VICTIM STRIPPED

A victim of two bandits who took everything but his socks, Lawrence Keenan, 25, of 101 Travella boulevard, was found lying in a field at Washington boulevard and Chianti street yesterday and taken to his home. Keenan told police he was struck on the head by the thugs and stripped of his clothing.

Two Negroes held up P. G. Josef, of 1218 Buena Vista street, at Monterey and Eloise streets Saturday night and robbed him of $142, Josef reported to police.

An unestimated amount of cash was obtained by an armed man who held up Simonson's Bakery, at 1917 Murray avenue, Saturday night. Dorothy Griffiths, a clerk, was alone in the place.

Family heirlooms more than 100 years old comprised the loot of burglars who visited the home of Mrs. Robert Swan, at 6319 Walnut street, according to a police report. A rear window was jimmied.

Foch Orders Allies To Harass Foe in Its Wide Retreat

In yesterday's installment of his War Memoirs, Marshal Foch described attacks that he directed in the Somme region, participated in by the British and French armies, in which they gained a foothold on the Santerre plain, capturing 13,000 prisoners and 300 cannon. This was early in August, 1918, and Foch told how he advocated pressing the Allied advantage thus gained by continuing the advance vigorously. He, therefore, issued orders to the British and French commanders accordingly. Operations were continued through the first half of August. In today's instalment Marshal Foch tells of the continuation of attacks against the Germans during the rest of August, 1918.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies During the Closing Phases of the World War.

CHAPTER XXX.

Since the middle of August, 1918, I had been worried by the fear that the German commander-in-chief might extricate his armies from our grip and abruptly break off the combat in order to resume it some distance in the rear.

Here he could select better positions on a shorter front, behind obstacles and on ground more favorable to the defensive and make a new distribution of his forces such as might enable him to launch an advantageous counter-attack.

In short, I feared that he might attempt, in the domain of a war of positions, some maneuver similar to that by which Gen. Joffre had prepared and won the First Battle of the Marne.

From a strictly military point of view, such a solution would enable him to take and keep the initiative and might give him a chance to restore the fortunes of his army.

Marshal Foch

The maneuver might consist in slipping from our grasp as quickly as possible, break the close contact we were maintaining everywhere, and then reform on some line further back, such as that of Antwerp - Brussels - Namur - the Meuse - the Chiers - Metz - Strasbourg. He could do that by taking advantage of the necessary slowness which must mark our advance through the devastated regions.

On this new line the Germans might mass their forces and offer a fresh resistance calling for most strenuous efforts on our part just as the winter was setting in.

But the retreat which would be comprised in such a maneuver—the only one offering the possibility of restoring the fortunes of the German armies—would be tantamount to an acknowledgment by the German general staff of an appreciable military defeat, susceptible of dangerously influencing German public opinion.

It would mean the evacuation of a part of France, most of Belgium and of upper Alsace. It would bring about a considerable modification of the war map at a moment when peace proposals were being thought of, and, finally, it would entail the immediate risk involved in removing or abandoning an enormous quantity of war material.

But whatever ideas on this subject the Germans may have had, the Allied general staff proceeded to take measures to deprive them of all possibility of carrying out

WILL ROGERS SAYS

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Been down near Lakewood, N. J., to spend the day with Mr. Arthur Brisbane at his beautiful new home. Bill Donovan, the fellow we thought was going to be attorney general, was there. Nice fellow. With Mr. Brisbane and his wife, and some of his children, took a long horseback ride through the pine forests of his 10,000-acre estate. He raises fine horses. Never mind what he writes. He told me 1937 would be our first prosperous year. (Only six more years to hold out). Says Russia is all working, and we can't compete with 'em by passing resolutions against 'em. Says Hoover will be elected by a bigger majority than before. Says fewer hours and less days per week is our only labor solution. Says Smith will be, or nominate the next Democratic candidate. Oh, and a lot more stuff he told me. But I am going to use most of it as my own. You don't suppose I went clear down there just for the horseback ride, do you? I got horses at home, but I can't learn anything riding 'em.

Yours, WILL.

RECALLS PAST WITH RUGS

In a humble dwelling at 907 Washington avenue, Braddock, a 30-year-old Armenian woman spends part of each day seated on the floor weaving her memories of Constantinople into Oriental prayer rugs on a handloom.

Mrs. Takuhi Havanian, mother of three American-born children, uses no pattern as her busy fingers knot and tie and cut bright wool into designs she learned 15 years ago at a mission school in Constantinople.

When she tires of weaving Orientals, she makes delicate lace doilies with an ordinary sewing needle and thread. She has been in America eight years and has made about 15 rugs on her hand looms. She has never sold any of them.

Art in Advertising Shown At Annual Exhibition In Downtown Hotel

By PENELOPE REDD

Word wanglers and type tricksters appear in their fourth annual advertising kermess in Pirate Hall at the William Penn Hotel during the next four days.

Here one may behold that peculiarly composite art highly expressive of our own hurried day where writer, artist, typographer, engraver and printer hasten to acclaim the best on earth.

Some 1,500 exhibits are entered in competition in three groups which are again subdivided into about 30 different methods of capturing the attention.

Penelope Redd

In addition to competitive media, there are 45 booths with special displays, and also a room for the Aluminum Company's Harvard Prize Group.

At the time we made a prior view to the press view, the judges had not yet awarded honors. Gay S. Walton, advertising manager of the Julius Kayser Company; P. T. Coburn, of McGraw-Hill Publishing Company; Ellsworth Geist, of the S. D. Warren Company, all of New York, and H. K. Dugdale of Baltimore, were busy defending individual choices.

Despite the staunch belief that advertising is destined to be the art which future generations will identify as irrevocably American and twentieth century, it is almost impossible to form judgments while so closely related to the life generating the art-to-be.

Certain firms maintain a splendid balance between idea and visualization. Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn are notable examples in their interpretations of such companies as Allegheny Metal and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

In the Elaw Knox material, prepared by Ketchum, McLeod and Grove, the same is true. Without any attempt to over-romanticize, ideas are rendered with pertinent emphasis.

The F. M. Byers Company prepared with the aid of T. F. Gensamen, typographer, a splendid broadside in blue, silver and black, a lyric challenge to direct the attention to pipe.

Another distinguished industrial design was a study of a bridge for the Basic Products Company, designed by William Phillips.

The brochure for the dedication of the James H. Reed Power Station, prepared by the Duquesne Light Company, and printed by Eddy Press, is one of the best contributions.

The advertisements prepared for the Union National Bank by John Klaus, with Edwin H. Stuart as typographer, were original without sacrificing dignity.

WIRES, TREES BLOWN DOWN IN STORM

Pedestrians in Peril When Electric Lines Fall in Street; Windows Broken

Slight damage to trees and wires was reported as the result of a high wind which yesterday and early last night swept the Pittsburgh district. The Weather Bureau announced that during several five-minute periods the wind reached 42 miles an hour.

All sorts of weather prevailed during the day. Fair and colder was the prediction for today, with warmer tomorrow.

William Whittaker, 11, of 1600 Banksville road, suffered a broken ankle when struck by a tree blown down in a wooded section near his home. He was treated at South Side Hospital.

Pedestrians in Rodman street, near North Highland avenue, were endangered when electric wires were torn down by a tree which was blown down. A fire alarm was sounded, but there was no blaze. An emergency crew of the Duquesne Light Company repaired the damage.

Two windows in the Fintex Clothing Store, 345 Fifth avenue, were shattered by the wind and sent a shower of glass into the street. The windows were valued at $450.

DUQUESNE HEAD TRIBUTE SET

More than 600 persons are expected to attend a dinner honoring the Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University, in the Hotel Schenley Thursday night. The principal speaker will be Dr. James N. Rule, acting superintendent of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction, and former principal of the Schenley High School.

Other speakers invited are Raymond M. Marlier, president of the Duquesne University Alumni Association; Dr. Thomas Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology; Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh; the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Callahan.

Dr. Callahan will return to Pittsburgh from New York tomorrow. He will be formally inaugurated as president at academic exercises in Memorial Hall Thursday afternoon.

PLAN GARDENS FOR JOBLESS

A survey will be made of all city-owned land to determine how much of it can be transformed into truck gardens where unemployed men may be employed this summer, Director of Public Works Lang said today.

Public Works Department employes will start the survey as soon as possible, Lang said, and will determine not only the amount of land available, but the crops to which it is most adaptable.

The land would be cultivated under a plan similar to that of the "war gardens" in 1918, the director said, and should supply hundreds of needy families with employment or food.

HELPING HAND SENDS NEEDED RELIEF

Medical Clinic Delayed By Press of Business; Garden Seed Appeal Made

A carload of food and clothing left Pittsburgh today for Penowa. It was sent by the Helping Hand and was contributions made late Saturday and Sunday. The car was donated by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad Company and contained 250 bushels of vegetables besides a large quantity of clothing, principally for the children.

The clothing arrived at an opportune moment, the woolen sweaters, jackets, coats and shoes being particularly needed by the children during the cold snap.

While the press of important work held up both Dr. C. B. Schildecker and Dr. A. L. Wise in opening the medical and dental clinic at Penowa today as planned, the preliminary work was completed, and both will be there tomorrow. Meanwhile the most urgent cases were cared for through Avella physicians.

Nothing has been done towards turning the Penowa situation over to the Washington County authorities, it being announced today this will be taken up when the relief work now being arranged is well under way, as every effort now being directed towards relieving the distress of the destitute there.

An appeal for seeds to aid Penowa families in supplying themselves with vegetables throughout the summer was made by the Helping Hand yesterday. The organization also stressed the need for more shoes and clothing, particularly shoes for women.

COURT HEARING ON HALL SET FOR MAY 18

Counsel for Oakland Site Foes and County Agree On Date to Argue Suit

Hearing of an equity suit designed to prevent the county from purchasing the Nicola site for the proposed Town Hall at Ruskin and Fifth avenues was set today for Tuesday, May 18, in Common Pleas Court.

Counsel for the county and for the groups protesting the hall's construction on the Nicola site agreed to that date after previously having asked that the hearing be delayed until after May 19. It was originally scheduled for today.

The suit was filed more than a week ago in behalf of the property owners in the Ruskin avenue district. A second taxpayers' suit was filed later, seeking to prevent the County Commissioners from issuing bonds to cover the purchase and construction costs of the site and building.

FATHER JAILED FOR CRUELTY

Before Thomas Dooley, 7 Fernando street, began serving a 90-day sentence in the workhouse, imposed by Magistrate J. J. O'Connor in Morals Court today, he turned over all his furniture to his four children. It was his second arrest in a week. A daughter, Rose, 19, explained that since the death of her mother two months ago her father has been abusing her and three other children. She said the furniture has been levied on for rent and is to be sold today. She hoped to be able to raise enough money to save the furniture and keep the family together.

2 YOUTHS FLEE POLICE SHOTS

Two youths who escaped bullets fired by Patrolman John E. Carroll after they abandoned a stolen automobile with which they crashed into another machine in Riverview Park late yesterday were being sought by police today.

The automobile of Herbert Locke, of Shady Gap, Pa., had been stolen from West North avenue and Palo Alto street. In the park the thieves crashed into a machine driven by Ernest Schaffer, of 1300 Sherman avenue, police said. After the accident the boys ran down a hillside with Patrolmen Carroll and Bart Flaherty in pursuit. Carroll opened fire, but the boys escaped.

Women Rescue Pets, Hamper Firemen

CHICAGO, April 27.—(INS.)—Neil Maxwell, 27, was being held for questioning today following a fire in a building on the North Side which drove 40 persons from their beds.

Work of firemen was hampered by the animal rescue work of women. Through the smoke and flames, Miss Edna Fowler dashed to save her pet lizard and her dog, Tasso; Mrs. Hilma Granath to rescue her canary; Mrs. Barbara Swanson to pick up her dog, Peggy, and Mrs. Hilda Carson to save one of her Persian cats. Mrs. Carson could not find the other cat, so stayed in her apartment until the fire was extinguished.

HELD IN ATTACK ON POLICEMAN

Charles Roberts, 24, of 236 South Negley avenue, who, police say, attacked Motorcycle Patrolman Eugene Jantz after he had been arrested for driving an automobile recklessly Saturday night, was awaiting a hearing today in Traffic Court.

The patrolman caught Roberts at Fifth avenue and Tunnel street after a chase in Bigelow boulevard. After being taken into custody Roberts was alleged to have attacked Jantz, breaking his nose. Roberts was examined by Dr. W. H. Evans, a city physician, and pronounced under the influence of liquor, according to police.

Roberts was released last night after posting his automobile as a forfeit.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENING

Will Repeat 'Charm' for Hospital

Do you know that the Stage and Play Society will repeat its production of "Charm" by John Alexander Kirkpatrick on May 7 in the Twentieth Century Club? And that the Eye and Ear Hospital will be the beneficiary? Because of the greatly increased charity work done by the hospital during the past winter, there is an operating deficit, which the Stage and Play wishes to help remove.

In the cast are Mrs. James M. Graham, Jr., Mrs. Thomas McC. Mabon, La Salle Dorrance, John C. Sheriff, Mrs. J. L. McKay Yardley, Miss Eloise Compbell, Howard G. Wilbert, Joseph S. Kuntz, Jr., Chester Wallace, James Maclarland Fielder Clark, Priscilla Barnes and Linford Keating.

Directing the play is George William Smith, with Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Sr., as assistant stage manager.

Just when the Fox Chapel Golf Club's season for women members will be opened has not been decided, although some of them have already started to play.

The chairman of the golf committee, Mrs. Thomas J. Hilliard, is just back from Miami, Fla., where she spent the past three months with her mother, Mrs. H. E. Talbott. With Mrs. Hilliard was her young son, Thomas J. Hilliard, Jr.

Just three more days after today, and April showers will be over, according to the calendar, and May flowers will blossom, and everyone will put aside winter diversions, and revel in the newness of the outdoors.

Outstanding events of May will include the wedding of Janet Davis, of Sewickley, and Francis Graham Hollister, of Santa Barbara, Cal., to take place May 9 in the Davis' California home; the final performance of the season of the Stage and Play Society to be held May 12 in the Twentieth Century Club; the formal opening of the Edgeworth Club on May 15; the marriage of Mary Shiras and Karl Adams Dietrich on May 23, and the annual benefit of the Child Health Association of Sewickley to be held May 29 in the new Edgeworth Club in the form of a dinner-dance.

Junior Club Girls Hold Conference

Just what is it that makes a junior club conference different from any other kind of club meeting? Is it only the youth of the participants and their fresh outlook? Or is it their spontaneity and vivacity? Of their quick laughter? Or their unstinted applause? Or the slang that creeps so easily into their speech and makes for characteristic informality? Or is it just these pretty young things themselves, some of them so young that they still wear their high school rings?

Whatever it is, it made Saturday's district conference at the Congress of Clubs a success in every way. About 300 were present and while Mrs. H. Maurice Snyder, of Philadelphia, State Federation junior chairman, was the guest of honor a number of prominent seniors were present, including Mrs. John E. McKirdy, district president; Mrs. H. J. Fox, Allegheny County president; Mrs. John M. Phillips, chairman of the home department; Mrs. C. C. Taylor, chairman for the blind; Mrs. R. B. Perry, junior vice chairman; Mrs. E. P. Davis, junior county chairman (and you should have heard "the hand" she got); Mrs. William Davies, Washington County junior chairman; Mrs. M. F. Pettler, Beaver County junior chairman; Mrs. J. G. Chalfant, state education chairman; Mrs. S. M. Byers, state director; Miss Minnie Stein, national Jewish junior president; Mrs. Maurice Davis, state Jewish junior chairman; Mrs. R. W. Johnston, Congress president, and Mrs. Fannie Matson, sweet-faced mother of Mrs. J. M. Steim, district junior chairman who introduced the guests.

The program opened in the afternoon with numbers by the Crafton Junior Choral. Later there were piano solos by Ruth Covalt Burrell, of Zelienople, and soprano solos by Charlotte Shallenberger, of New Kensington. This young audition winner, by the way, is developing a dramatic sense in her singing.

The talks were: "Juniors and the Girl Scouts," by Mrs. John Gard, of Irwin, in which she spoke of the scouts as "junior juniors"; "Are We All Here?", by Mrs. C. E. Messersmith, of Ambridge, who suggested ways in which to increase attendance; "The Joys and Sorrows of the First Year," by Mrs. S. J. Irvine, Jr., which told of the new Evans City juniors and their definite steps toward procuring a public library; "The Pleasure's Mine," by Sarah Cecil, of Irwin, in which were detailed the pleasures and benefits to be had in club work; "What Shall We Play?", a discussion of the mutuality of aims between seniors and juniors, by Jennie Zaremberg, of Beaver Falls; a witty bit on the mental stimulus and other benefits that come through club companionships and friendships, by Attorney Emily Wilson, of Carnegie; "After You, Madam," in which Jean Marie Wieland, of Butler, spoke concerning senior advisors; "Your Program," by Dorothy Conn, chairman of the program bureau and a talk on the York convention by Mrs. R. L. Thompson, of Dormont.

The Jeannette Juniors gave an original sketch depicting a club meeting sans parliamentary law and ethics, and Miss Mary Florence Taylor, of Crafton, spoke on ethics under the title of "Pardon Me, Lady, But—."

An exceedingly clever "Trilogy of Trying Technicalities" was enacted by three generations, Mrs. A. J. Ashe, Mrs. W. R. Alter and Miss Lois Ann Alter, who had written it. Miss Emma Snodgrass assisted at the piano. Closing the conference was Mrs. Snyder's peppy talk.

NEWEST SPORTS FROCKS ARE VERY PRACTICAL AND DRESSY

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 27.—Certainly some thanks is due to the dressmakers for our interest in things athletics. For some of the most attractive frocks and novelties made are designed for the sports arena, whether one be an active participant or merely one of the onlookers. The new sports clothes are much more attractive than those of a few seasons ago. The short skimpy skirts and bare silhouette have given away to a delightful mixture of the pretty with the practical, carefully blended and balanced.

EVEN THE SIMPLEST tennis frock has minute details and touches in the form of tucks, set-in bands and appliqued bands applied in various ways. Other frocks have touches of fine handwork to enhance their charm. All in all, the perfectly plain sports frock isn't seen any more and it doesn't seem to put any of us off our game, this new idea of wearing a frock that is becoming as well as utilitarian in purpose. White frocks are well liked with color introduced in the form of gilets or cardigans of bright hue.

BOTH OF THE sketches on this page display winning sartorial form. The frock that is all prepared to win the set against any champion is of white wash silk, of the type used for men's shirting, and is by Jane Regny. This clever designer shines in the sports field with her creation and is considered a leader. Set-in bands are used diagonally at one side of the bodice and vertically at the other. The la extend down one side of the skirt and flare in a circular movement which lends the ne sary width to the skirt edge. The belt is of the material. The right hand sketch show sport gilet, also by Jane Regny. It is of dark brown and vivid yellow plaided flannel, is sleeveless and is belted with the material.

NEW IDEA SAVES SILK HOSE

Expensive at best, silk hose and undergarments are made doubly so by improper washing. A fashion expert has found a new, simple way to correct this.

She adds a tablespoonful of Energine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Then she washes and rinses the articles as usual. The addition of Energine removes all the body excretions that soften and rot silk.

The results are amazing. Not only does this method give new cleanliness and freshness with original color revived but actually gives longer life to hose and undergarments. Try this new method of adding Energine to soapy water. It's easier and quicker than just soap and water alone, means less rubbing and insures extra wear that will surprise you.

Energine is unexcelled, also, for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.

FOCH DESCRIBES HOW ALLIES WON WAR INITIATIVE

GERMANS GIVEN NO CHANCE TO DIG IN

any such maneuver by unremittingly continuing its operations.

Urges Repeated Blows

On the right wing the French 10th Army had, on the seventeenth and eighteenth, prepared its principal operation by some local actions which gave it possession of the heights between Tracy-le-Val and Morsain, and enabled it to push forward a part of its artillery.

On the 20th it assaulted the enemy's main position, drove him from the Nouvron plateau and hurled him back toward the wooded places of Mont de Choisy and Carlepont. On the 21st it took those places and, pursuing the beaten Germans, reached the banks of the Oise and of the Ailette on the 22nd and 23rd. Simultaneously, the French 3rd Army occupied Lassigny and the right bank of the Divette.

On the left, the British 3rd Army, under Gen. Byng, in its turn entered into action. Owing to delay in the arrival of certain units—which Marshal Haig reported—the attack had been postponed until the 21st. To avoid further delay, on the 19th, following the successful results obtained by the 10th Army, I addressed the following urgent appeal to Sir Douglas:

"The enemy has everywhere been shaken by the blows already dealt him. We must repeat blows without losing any time and to increase their effect, we must use every division that can be put into line without delay.

"Therefore I assume that the attack of your 3d army, postponed already until August 21, will be launched on that day with the utmost violence carrying along with it the divisions of the 1st army lying next to it and your 4th army in its entirety.

"After your brilliant successes of the 8th, 9th and 10th, any hesitation on their part would not accord with the situation of the enemy and the normal ascendancy we have obtained over him."

British Gain Ground

The British 3d Army did not fail to do all that was expected of it. On August 21, after a rapid penetration of the German lines, it threw the enemy back to beyond the Arras-Albert railway, between Moyenneville and Beaucourt, resumed its advance on the 23rd, and on the 24th reaping the fruit of its efforts, arriving at the gates of Croisilles and Bapaume.

Profiting by this advance, the British 4th Army pushed forward north of the Somme and arrived on the plateau of Mametz and the heights of Bray.

As early as the 22nd of August, Marshal Haig, in particular, with accuracy of vision and admirable ardor, informed me in the course of an interview at Mauchy-le-Chatel, that the third attack of the British 3rd Army would be pushed with the utmost energy, supported to the north of the Somme by the British 4th Army.

The commanders of these two armies, Gens. Byng and Rawlinson, were given the mission to reach as quickly as possible the line Queant-Velu-Peronne. At the same time, the British 1st Army, in its turn, was to attack about the 26th beyond the Scarpe and try to pierce the line Drocourt-Queant.

Those dispositions, prescribed in the general operations order from British headquarters dated August 24 corresponded entirely with my way of looking at the situation and my wish to precipitate events and widen the front of our attacks. Therefore, on the 26th, I wrote to Marshal Haig:

"Things are going very well with you. I can only admire the resolute manner in which you press forward the business giving no respite to the enemy and constantly increasing the scope of your action.

"It is his constant widening of the offensive—a sustained offensive—this pushing vigorously forward toward carefully chosen objectives, without overpreoccupation as to alignment or close liaison—that will give us the best results with the smallest losses—as you have so perfectly comprehended.

"No need to tell you that the armies of Gen. Petain are about to start up their attacks again and using similar methods."

Asked for Americans

The combative ardor animating Sir Douglas even led him to desire to take along the American divisions in his victorious career. On August 27, he wrote me:

"I am convinced that it is desirable for the American divisions to take an active part in the fighting without delay, and I have the honor to submit to your consideration the suggestion that the distribution of these divisions be arranged in such a way as to make possible the launching of a concentric movement against Cambrai and starting from the southwards, against Mezieres.

"The actual direction taken by my attacks will bring me to Cambrai, provided the pressure exerted against the rest of the enemy's front be constantly maintained."

The clearing operations north of the Oise had thoroughly succeeded. Before it was possible to pass to a concentric advance at Cambrai-Mezieres, it was important to first undertake the operations already planned for on the Meuse and reserve for them a large force of American troops. Therefore, in answering Sir Douglas, I observed:

". . . The final objectives which you mentioned to me in your letter are exactly those I have in mind and toward which I am directing the operations of the Allied armies.

"These operations are now conducted in several different regions, each in its own style, and at short intervals one from other. So all that is needed now is to develop them as actively as possible. That is what I am doing.

"Approaching events, with their results, can alone form the basis for a new distribution of the forces now available. They must also decide whether additional American divisions should be assigned to the British Army. For the time being, all we have to do is to push hard and go forward as far as possible."

Advance Continues

And we were pushing hard. On August 26 the British right wing, under Gen. Horne, attacking east of Arras, brilliantly carried the heights of Monchy-le-Preux, seized, next day, the crossing of the Sensee below Croisilles, and after capturing the latter place on the 28th, ran against the fortified line Drocourt-Queant, which proved a serious obstacle to its further advance as well as a strong base for the enemy.

The latter availed himself of this position for launching, on the 29th, violent counter-attacks against the British 1st Army, which, though they failed to share it, gained the time needed for the retrograde movement being carried out further south. For the Germans, menaced by Gen. Horne's rapid advance and under constant pressure from the British 3d and 4th Armies and the French 1st Army, now proceeded to retreat along a wide front between the Sensee and the Oise, during the whole of August 27, 28, and 29.

The enemy established himself on the heights east of Bapaume, behind the Somme, above Peronne and behind the canal du Nord, thus abandoning to the Allies important centers such as Combles, Chaulnes, Roye and Noyon.

On August 30, the British 4th Army captured the railway bridge south of the town and, during the night of August 31, September 1, it stormed the hill of Saint-Quentin, key to the defense of Peronne. At dawn next day the old town was free from Germans.

Meet Strong Resistance

While the British 1st army, continuing its advance on the extreme left of the battle line, was preparing to attack the Drocourt-Queant line, and the Franco-British center (British 3rd and 4th armies, French 1st and 3rd armies) was turning and carrying the line of the Somme, the French 10th army, on the right of the battle line, was engaged in very hard fighting between the Aisne and the Ailette, on the plateaux north of Soissons, where the enemy, strongly entrenched, offered a desperate resistance.

Despite this resistance, the French 10th army, fighting foot by foot, was gaining ground daily, and to such an extent that, on September 2, it had surmounted the heights of Crouy and reached the high-road from Soissons to Councy-le-Chateau.

At the other end of the battle-line, the British First Army, continuing its broadly conceived operations, recommenced its attacks. On September 2, after violent and stubborn fighting it broke through the Drocourt-Queant line and passed on for several miles in the direction of Marquion.

After this smashing blow, the enemy began to retreat along the whole front between the Somme and the Sensee, reaching new positions behind the Nord Canal, in front of the Hindenburg line.

Thus, at the beginning of September, victory had passed to the Allied banners, thanks to the rapid and sustained development of the operations following the German offensive of July 15. The results envisaged in the memorandum of July 24 were being attained.

THAT'S WHY THE GREAT COUNTRY-WIDE SWITCH TO CAMELS

Since the introduction of Camels in the Humidor Pack it has taxed even our tremendous production to supply the great new demand. It seems that literally everybody is switching to Camels.

It's not because the tobacco in this cigarette is better than before. We have always used the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobacco money and long experience could buy.

The real reason, while Camel sales have been soaring to new high peaks, is that now for the first time, millions are learning what a joy a fine cigarette in prime, fresh condition can be.

Loss of moisture due to scorching or evaporation from old style packages leaves cigarettes harsh and dry.

Dryness and peppery dust are the things that plague a smoker's throat.

We vacuum-clean away the dust and wrap perfectly conditioned Camels in a special air-sealed, moisture-proof Cellophane coat to keep the natural freshness in and keep the germs out.

So now, no matter where you buy Camels, you get them in factory-fresh, mild condition. The exclusive new wrapper acts as a tiny humidor.

If you haven't tried Camels in this Humidor Pack, switch over for just one day. Then leave them tomorrow if you can.

● It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

FRENCH FARCE TURNS INTO HORSEPLAY IN THE DAVIS

By GEORGE SEIBEL

A goldfish should stay in its puddle and a butterfly has no business in a threshing machine. Such are the thoughts that afflict one while watching Frank Fay and Laura La Plante going through the motions of comedy in "God's Gift to Women," the new screen comedy in the Davis.

George Seibel

It is based on a play called "The Devil Was Sick," and that play was built on a farcical idea that would go well in Paris or Vienna, with airy comedians who know how to play ping-pong with the Ten Commandments. They can't do that in Hollywood, and if they could the censor wouldn't let them. The result in the case of Frank Fay and Laura La Plante is rather sad.

Both these players are talented—the entire cast is made up of good people like Charles Winninger—but they have the impossible task of transferring the frothiest of French farce into Anglo-Saxon and mid-Victorian pudding.

DON JUAN MISCAST

Frank Fay cast as a modern Don Juan is the first false note. They might as well cast la Dressler for Joan of Arc.

Frank is an impressionable Frenchman who believes he is a lineal descendant of Don Juan, and tries to emulate that breaker of hearts. Then he falls in love with an American girl, and at the same time is told by a doctor that he is on the verge of death from aneurism—the excitement of a kiss will kill him.

How he tries to avoid excitement and how excitement follows him wherever he turns is material for rich farce, but it doesn't materialize.

CHIMPANZEE COMEDY

This sort of thing must be done with airy grace and delicate finesse. Instead it is done clumsily and turns into mere horseplay. Not so very different from the chimpanzee comedy which follows.

Then there is Ripley with an assortment of "Believe It or Not" marvels to astound and amuse us. And in the newsreel is Hamilton Fish, looking very sad as he reads a piece about Nicaragua. It's a sad old world!

Death Plea Refused For Mexican Rebel

MEXICO CITY, April 27.—(AP.) The Department of Military Justice at Monterey has refused to consider a petition for a death sentence against Francisco A. Cardenas, National Revolutionary party candidate for governor of Nuevo Leon. The death sentence was asked on a charge that Cardenas had once taken up arms against the federal government.

The department turned the matter over to the federal attorney general, who intimated he would take no action at least until next month.

Samuel Goldwin Continues Search for New Faces For His Studio

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.

With but two players to show in his search for new talent, Samuel Goldwyn is commissioning J. W. Crosby to tour the country to seek new star material for United Artists.

Mr. Crosby isn't exactly new at this sort of thing, he is credited with the development of Ben Lyon, Clara Bow, Jean Arthur, Dorothy Mackaill and Reginald Denny.

Already he is responsible for the signing of Shirley Grey, Oakland stock actress, for a new Goldwyn movie school.

In continuation of his search he will go to El Paso, Dallas, Indianapolis, Salt Lake, New Orleans, Louisville, Chicago, St. Paul, Cleveland, Denver, Columbus, Cincinnati and other cities.

Jean Arthur

With Goldwyn's regime, United Artists is showing its first real interest in the development of new talent.

LATEST GOSSIP

Though John McCormick foreswore Hollywood for good when he sailed for Honolulu, rumor persists that he will change his mind and be back here after his divorce from Colleen Moore is final on May 5th.....Arthur Caesar must have his polo even if it costs him occasional accidents. She tipped the servant to good investments which netted better than $16,000. The maid retired.....In the old days, Kay Francis was a stenographer. She keeps her hand in by writing her diary in shorthand.....Ina Claire's Radio picture will be called "Folly." It harks back to the backstage era. DISTANCE LENDS ENCHANTMENT

Despairing of winning recognition in Hollywood, Dorothy Lee, Paramount script girl, went East and spent a number of months studying music and dramatics. Her confidence has been rewarded by a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract to act for the talkies. One who is happy at her success is Robert Lee, assistant director at Paramount, to whom she has been married for over two years.

JEAN ARTHUR WORKS

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Now, with just what city would you associate the beer racket, police, bombs and gunmen all mixed up in one melodrama? Correct! As a reward for your perspicacity you are hereby authorized to purchase not less than one seat for said melodrama, "On the Spot," which premieres locally in the Alvin tonight.

Next week the Alvin becomes the domicile of stock and will shelter Mr. George Sharp's thespic brigade. "The Play's the Thing," which was introduced to us originally by Holbrook Blinn, will be our little playmate for the week.

Any actress can "make up," for the loss of youth but not for the loss of appeal.

Nine acts of drama, ranging in price from just over 10 cents an act, downward, will be seen in "Strange Interlude," offered by George Sharp, in the Pitt, beginning at 5:45 this afternoon. In order to keep crumbs out of the aisles patrons will be shooed out of the theater to dine at 7:40.

After the present week the Pitt will go movie, with a schedule of two shows daily. Next Monday "Dirigible" will sail there, with Jack Holt, Ralph Forbes and Fay Wray in featured roles.

FRENCH TO PITCH TODAY

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Meine's Fine Hurling. Equals Record of Year. Fans Mourn Herrmann.

BUC PITCHING SLUMP MAY BE ENDING

IN THREE STRAIGHT games dropped last week the Pirate pitching wasn't good enough to carry the starting hurler nine innings, but local fans are hopeful that Heine Meine's great exhibition in hurling the Bucs to a 1-to-0 victory over the Cardinals yesterday means better flinging will be in order from now on. Certainly that St. Louis performance spelled a pleasing change in form on the part of Meine himself, as he had failed to go the distance in either of his first two starts, and if the improvement can be extended to the other members of the staff, the Pirates, now that George Grantham and Adam Comorosky are back to round out the regular lineup, soon may be picking up on the leaders.

Heine Meine

That was only the second shutout ever pitched by Meine in the majors, and the first time he has beaten the Cardinals since the Fourth of July, 1929. Incidentally, Bill Hallahan, whom he defeated yesterday, finds the Pirates about the hardest picking in the National League. He downed them twice at the tail end of the 1929 season, but hasn't won a decision over them since in three trials.

MEINE PITCHED THE seventh shutout and the third 1-to-0 game of the spring. A St. Louis club also was the victim of one of the earlier 1-to-0 affairs, in which Tom Bridges, of the Tigers, beat the Browns by that score. Harry Seibold, of the Braves, duplicated it against the Giants. The other shutouts to date are credited to Burleigh Grimes, of the Cards, against the Reds, 4 to 0; Tom Zachary, of the Braves, against the Robins, 4 to 0; Clinton Brown, of the Indians, against the White Sox, 7 to 0, and Lloyd Brown, of the Senators, against the Red Sox, 8 to 0.

Heine's four-hit game equaled the record for the year in the big show. Three other flingers have pitched four-hit engagements — Charley Root against the Pirates, Bump Hadley against the A's and Tom Bridges against the Browns. Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey also turned in a joint four-hit game against the Reds. Root, in a 4-to-1 victory on April 19, was the only pitcher to defeat the Cardinals this season prior to Meine.

THOUGH THE DEATH of Garry Herrmann was not unexpected, his passing caused sincere regret throughout the baseball world. As the only chairman the old National Commission ever had, a post held for 24 years, he was once one of the most prominent figures in the game's history and always a broad and liberal sportsman.

He was the third man high in baseball to die within one month, and the fifth since last December, his death following closely those of William H. Baker, Samuel W. Dreyfuss, Ernest S. Barnard and Ban Johnson.

HERRMANN'S ENTRY INTO the National League with Julius and Max Fleischman and George B. Cox on August 9, 1902, when they purchased the Cincinnati club from John T. Brush, came at a time when the National League needed bolstering in its war with the American. The late Harry C. Pulliam, then secretary of the Pirates, remarked here at the time that the deal increased the value of every other National League franchise at least 20 per cent. John K. Tener, of Charleroi, and John A. Heydler, National League president, are the only surviving men who ever served with Herrmann on the old National Commission. Pulliam died on July 29, 1909; Tom Lynch on February 27, 1924, and Ban Johnson on March 28 last.

Otis Crandall

AN OLD LOCAL favorite, but a newcomer as a Pirate, greeted the eyes of the early arrivals at Forbes Field last week when Otis Crandall, slab coach, came out to pitch to the Buccaneers in batting practice.

Crandall has been helping out in that role regularly since the season opened, and the fact that the club is short-handed in the hurling department is only one of the reasons. Another is that the veteran coach has proved able to give the hitters better preparation for a real game than they can get from the regular members of the staff.

AS A MATTER of fact, the Pirates declare that Otis is harder to hit than any of the regular pitchers in practice. He pitches to the weaknesses of the various batters and they have a tough time with him. The Bucs insist that he could pitch a whole ball game if occasion demanded.

Meanwhile the former Giant flinger, who was just breaking into the big shows 23 years ago this spring, is also working hard on his job as tutor of the Buccaneer pitchers. Several of them, Larry French in particular, say he has helped them a lot already, especially in teaching them the change of pace, of which he was a master, and it is freely predicted that as a result of his coaching there will be a marked improvement in Corsair pitching before the season is very old, such as Meine showed yesterday.

THE PIRATE VICTORY in the first tilt yesterday may be no indication of what is to follow, but for two years the Bucs have appeared to hold an edge on the Cardinals. In 1929 they took 16 out of 22 games in the season's series with the Redbirds, and last year they won their first four games with the Missourians and defeated them 12 times in their first 16 encounters. In the last 45 games between these clubs, the Pirates have won two out of every three on an average—30 victories against 15 defeats.

ONE OF THE greatest amateur fighters of the old days will be introduced at the A. A. U. national senior championship tournament, opening tonight in New York. He is Billy Rodenbach, who not only held the national amateur middleweight title six consecutive years, but also, though weighing only 154 pounds, whipped the leading non-professional heavyweights of his day, including the then famous Emory Payne, of Cleveland, and Sam Berger, of San Francisco, the latter scaling 209.

Veteran boxing fans of the Pittsburgh district will recall Rodenbach as having come here from the West Side A. C., of New York, and retained his title by cleaning up the other big fellows entered when the national A. A. U. championships were held at the old Avenue Theater in Fifth avenue in the winter of 1899.

RODENBACH WAS SO good that many boxing men believed he could defeat the foremost professionals, but just as he was about to enter the money division at 24 and was virtually matched with Kid McCoy, a severe injury to his right elbow forced his retirement and ended his career.

Charley Borah

"I wanted to be certain I was ready," he says in explaining why he didn't turn pro earlier. "Nowadays most youngsters bump into trouble because they are rushed along too rapidly, but as things turned out, I waited too long." Billy, at the age of 50, is now attached to fire alarm headquarters in Central Park, New York.

ONE OF AMERICA'S star sprinters is definitely out of the 1932 Olympic games in Los Angeles. Charley Borah, coast star, announces that he will not be a competitor for a place on the team that will represent the United States. An injury to one of his legs, suffered while he was a student at the University of Southern California, still bothers him, he says, and he has no hope of ever running again. Borah, though a graduate in dentistry and licensed to practice in California and Arizona, is now studying medicine at Southern California, and says his studies would prevent him from training for the Olympic tryout, even if he were physically fit.

SLUGGER HOME AFTER STAY IN HOSPITAL

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Drawing more attention than the King of Siam, George Herman Ruth, the King of Slam, came home late last night after a three days' visit in the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital at Boston, where he was recuperating from his injury caused when he collided with Charley Berry at the plate last Wednesday.

Ruth limped badly as he alighted from the train last night. He was tired. He crawled into the waiting wheelchair almost eagerly. The trying ordeal of the past few days had sapped his energy.

CROWD AT STATION

A crowd of several hundred people who had hoped to get a glimpse of the Sultan of Swat, were disappointed. Ruth's attendants wheeled him to the baggage lift at the track level, up a flight to where his automobile was waiting for him. Transferred to the car, he and Mrs. Ruth, who accompanied him from Boston, drove home immediately.

To the all-important question, Ruth answered:

"I feel O. K., but I think I'll be lucky if I get back in the game within a week or 10 days.

"It's a tough proposition to lie on a cot for nearly a week, especially when you know your club wants you to get back in there. But I'm tickled to death that it was no worse. I might have been laid up for repairs for weeks. But now I figure that I'll be in the lineup soon. Of course, this all depends on the way my leg heals up."

There is no blood clot as was feared, and the surgeons don't imagine that there will be any after results from his accident. The swollen area has nearly regained normalcy.

Mrs. Ruth, who has been with him constantly since the injury, was more emphatic.

"It will be at least two weeks," she said.

Ruth's injury has been diagnosed as a deep muscle bruise. He will be under the care of Dr. Edward King, who attended him during his sickness three years ago.

Informed of Dusty Cooke's injury at Washington, Ruth said:

"That's tough. The jinx certainly has been after us Yankees this spring."

GRADE SCHOOLS BEGIN PLAY

With an entry list of 110 teams the grade school volleyball campaign gets under way today. Games will be played in three districts in both the girls' and mixed competition. Pupils enrolled in from the fifth to the eighth grades are eligible for competition.

Thursday the grade school baseball teams will start operations, playing in two sections, with six groups in each section. Group winners in each section will take part in an inter-group series beginning May 18.

Tonight, at Homestead, the Braddock and Homestead High School football teams will clash in a postponed game. Friday Homestead meets Scott High, of North Braddock.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF SATURDAY: The legal name of Leonardo da Vinci, the great Italian universal genius of the Renaissance period, is given as Leonardo di Ser d'Antonio di Ser Piero di Ser Guido da Vinci, in Maurice W. Brockwell's book "Leonardo da Vinci." P. W. A. FITZSIMMONS FOUND 72 PEARLS IN AN OYSTER—In 1905, Fitzsimmons, who is president of the Michigan Mutual Liability Company, of Detroit, was served some raw oysters at his club and noticed that one was larger than the others. Upon examination of what he thought was a gravel pit when he bit into it, he found 72 pearls, ranging from the size of a pea to the head of a pin. Fitzsimmons has kept all of the pearls in his office as proof of his uuusual find. THE AUTO COLLISION IN BISHOPVILLE, S. C.—On Friday, February 8, 1929, C. Key Sanders, of Chester, S. C., noticing another car approaching him out of control, stopped his car off the road near Bishopville. The other car, driven by Ralph McClendon, of Bishopville, swerved toward Sanders' car, somersaulted and landed squarely on top of it. A few minor scratches were the only injuries received by any of the occupants.

JONES SHOOTS HIGH SCORE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 27.—(AP.)—Time was when it was news if a man bit a dog or Christy Mathewson was knocked from the mound in a baseball game. Today it is news if Bobby Jones goes out to play in a four-ball golf match and comes back with the highest score of the quartet.

Playing with Leo Diegel, against the brothers Dutro, Olin and Mortie, the champion of golf champions yesterday saw his side all square at the finish, but the result of the match was incidental.

Jones used up 75 strokes on the water-soaked Wilshire Country Club course. Mortie Dutra led with a 73 and Olin Dutra and Diegel had scores of 74. A gallery of approximately 2,000 waded over the course, flooded by an all-night rain.

Olin Dutra, the P. G. A. champion of Southern California, appeared in the match for Atlanta and Los Angeles charities, as a pinch hitter for George Von Elm, who was a member of the gallery with a sprained right thumb.

Local Hockey Team To Divide $1,641

WINDSOR, Ont., April 27.—(AP.)—The 13 players and Manager Herb Mitchell, of the Windsor Bulldogs, champions of the International Hockey League for 1931, will receive approximately $273 each as their share of the players' pool from the playoff games.

Windsor was given $3,829 as the lion's share of the 12-game series receipts. Buffalo, which finished in second place, has $3,282 to be divided among the players; Cleveland $2,188 and Pittsburgh $1,641.

VINES WINS NET TITLE

OJAI, Cal., April 27.—(INS.)—By defeating Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, Ellsworth Vines, University of Southern California freshman, today had won the Ojai Valley tennis championship.

Sport Vignettes

Among other persons with whom Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cubs, is unpopular are the Pirate pitchers . . . Recently Ed Renkey, local duckpin star, rolled what was thought to be a world record of 700 for three games, in the Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association tournament . . . Comes now word from Butler, Pa., that one R. Hamel rolled a total of 702 on the Main alleys there as recently as October 22 of last year while competing for the City Gas and Oil team against the Printers in the Independent League . . . Hamel rolled single game scores of 233, 242 and 227, an average of 234 . . . Renkey's games were 245, 199 and 256 . . . The irony of it is that Hamel didn't know he had turned in a world record score until he read in the papers that Renkey's mark was supposed to be a new standard.

Here with King (the First) Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, for the latter's bout with Emmett Rocco, at Motor Square Garden tonight is Willus Britt, a veteran handler of boxers, who reports that business around the country is not what it used to be in a fistic sense . . . In other words, he says that the rumors that there is something akin to a business depression have not been exaggerated . . . Incidentally, he adds that it is his conviction that Levinsky is the hardest hitter, punch for punch, of any of the heavyweights, not barring Primo Carnera, Jack Sharkey, or any of 'em . . . That is, when the King connects, as he so often doesn't.

Christy Walsh, the well-known sports syndicator, tells a good story on himself . . . It deals with the Notre Dame-University of Southern California football game played in Los Angeles in 1925, in which Adam Walsh, the Irish center, was one of the outstanding stars . . . The following day, Christy was in the Biltmore Hotel there when he was introduced to a beautiful young lady, who immediately began to put on the gush act . . . "Why, Mr. Walsh," she whyed, "you played a mar-r-vel-lous game yesterday. I never was so thrilled in my life!" . . . "I'm sure you must be mistaken," Christy spoke up in self defense . . . "But you're Mr. Walsh, aren't you?" the sweet young thing protested . . . "Yes," replied Christy, "I'm Mr. Walsh, but I'm afraid you don't know me from Adam."

Joe Alexander, of New Castle, is the new manager of Emmett Rocco, the Italian heavyweight, of Ellwood City, and he plans to make the stocky Emmett carry the fighting to his opponents in more vigorous fashion beginning with the Levinsky battle tonight . . . . Alexander also is handling Mickey Solomen, the Youngstown middleweight . . . . Buck McTiernan, local middle, still is shopping around for a new manager and may hook up with Joe Smith, of Philadelphia, who piloted Tommy Loughran to the light-heavyweight title . . . . Bunny Buntach, who has been handling McTiernan, does not object to Buck's plan of going away from home to try his luck and they will part on friendly terms . . . . Joey Goodman, the Jewish welterweight, and Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland, his manager, have parted, but may kiss and make up again . . . . Larry Keogh, of Cleveland, is the new manager of Henry Firpo, the Looeyville middleweight, who is

WALLMAN SIGNS WITH BUICKS

By TOM BIRKS

Contrary to reports, Carl Wallman will not be with the North Side Civics this season in the City League. Wallman has attached his signature to a North Side Buick contract, and what games he takes part in under the City League banner will be with Johnny Dunsky's outfit at Pleasant Valley.

Dunsky feels that his club will give all the highly touted outfits in the loop a race for honors this season. Besides the regulars, Dunsky had some new faces at the workout Saturday afternoon.

A pitcher named Armand Dubuque, who once was with the Winston-Salem team, in the Piedmont League, at the present time working in Pittsburgh, will pitch for the North Siders. He is a big, husky righthander and, according to Dunsky, has lots of stuff.

Bruce, who probably was one of the classiest outfielders in the league last season, will be with the Buicks.

The Homestead Grays will play their first twilight game of the season on the Pittsburgh sandlots Thursday, when the Posey stars meet Art Rooney's North Side Civics at the Salt Works grounds.

A number of Middle Atlantic League clubs will be met the following week. Saturday, May 9, finds the Grays back in Pittsburgh to meet Hank Daly's Homewood club at Forbes Field.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—There was a vastly different tone to the Pirate family today as compared with the morale of the team as it wended its sad way out of Pittsburgh Saturday night on top of a devasting defeat at the hands of the Cubs. The cause of the transformation may be found in a 1-to-0 victory achieved yesterday over the Cardinals, who are ambitious to repeat their pennant honors in the National League.

The Freebooters were tough hombres for the Redbirds last year. In fact, the Cards would have been peeved at everybody in Pittsburgh had they failed to win the flag last season, for the Pirates treated them shamefully in the first half of the race. And then in the first meeting of the year between the two clubs, the Buccos rose in their might to annex a sensational success.

COMMY LONE SCORER

There were many stars in the classic of yesterday, which was viewed by more than 15,000 people, but the oustanding heroes were Heinie Meine and Adam Comorosky.

Meine looked like Matty or Aleck the Great as he held the powerful Redbirds to four hits. Comorosky scored the only run of the game after a smart steal of third base and later the Polish flyer turned in a diving catch that would have swelled with admiration the breast of Fred Clarke, who was a past master in these headlong catches.

The excitement will be resumed this afternoon with Flint Rhem opposing Larry French. At least that was the calculation of the opposing pilots this morning and the slab choices are likely to stand for the second clash.

The Polish Flyer swung back into action after a sick spell. Swollen glands in Commy's neck were still bothering him and he was in care of the Pirate trainer on the way down from Pittsburgh, but when Manager Street announced Binghamton Bill Hallahan as his pitching choice, Skipper Ens wanted the Pole's righthand bat in the lineup.

WILD PITCH COSTLY

The intense pitching duel had reached a feverish stage in the sixth when Commy came up with one out. The clever Redbird southpaw, like Meine, had shut the door in the faces of the Pirates. But the Pittsburgh leftfielder waited for and received a

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Well, Chick Hafey is back with the Cards, but he gave the year's best imitation of holding out. It's all right to send back your contract when you have to knock the icicles off mail box, but after April Fool's day it ain't no fooling. At that, Chick muffed one, he finally signed for $12,500 minus $100 for every day he missed since the season started.

Nick Altrock

Well, if Chick had held out all season for the 154 games he would owe the management $15,400 in fines and they would be out on a limb for $2,900. Of course, Chick would have had to live on snowballs and fried ice cubes meantime, but sticking the front office is almost worth a six month's diet.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

This is the night that King Levinsky wields his scepter in his local debut in the Motor Square Garden ring.

King Levinsky

The colorful Jewish heavyweight, of Chicago, who has boxed Tommy Loughran, Jimmy Slattery, Tuffy Griffiths, Jack Gagnon, Johnny Risko and other well-known figures among the big fellows and is reputed to be a great right-hand puncher, meets Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City Italian, in the 10-round main bout.

For years, the local promoters have contended that the best possible combination with which to draw a "gate" is a bout involving a Jewish and an Italian fighter. In this match they have the "it" that it takes to pack in the customers.

Emmett Rocco

Rocco has done some of his best battling in the Garden ring, where he has boxed George Panka and K. O. Christner, among others, and he feels it is his lucky spot. He believes he can outbox the big Chicagoan, who will be coached by his sister-manager, Mrs. Lena Levy, who, denied a license to act as a second by the rule that prevents blood relations from working in boxers' corners in this state, will be close at hand, where she can exchange words of advice with Willus Britt, who will be in active charge of the King's throne room.

Levinsky has been training here since last Friday, having come in from Boston, where he boxed Risko last Tuesday night.

CARD OF BIG FELLOWS

All of the boxers on tonight's card are middleweights or heavier. Harry Williams, Negro lightheavyweight, of Cincinnati, who formerly resided here, meets the up-and-coming Buddy McArthur, of McKeesport, in the eight-round semi-final. Lloyd Clements, of Carrissvale, and Russell Powers, of Youngstown, box the second bout, and Anson Green, of Homestead, and Carl Montebano, of Braddock, are in the opener, scheduled for 6:30.

Jack DeMave, of New York, and Pat McFowler, of Johnstown, veteran heavyweights, meet in a ten-round bout in Johnstown tonight. Johnny Haggerty boxes Johnny Warner, and Eddie Guba meets Nick Strapple in feature preliminaries. Phil Goldstein, local lightweight, will second DeMave.

Amateur bouts are slated in the Rialto Theater, Aliquippa, and the Greensburg Coliseum tonight. Jimmy Kelly, former local southpaw welterweight slasher, meets Mike Dundee, of Rock Island, in a 12-rounder at Dayton, O.; Patsy Perroni and Roy (Tiger) Williams, box in the Canton (O.) auditorium and Harry Blitman and Lew Massey, Philadelphia featherweight rivals, clash in the Arena in that city.

WRESTLERS AT NEW CASTLE

Wrestling will be revived after a lapse of a decade and a half in New Castle, with a show headed by a bout between Mike Romano, the Italian, and Taro Myaki, the Jap, in the Castle Bowl tonight. The second show at Motor Square Garden is billed Wednesday night.

Between Rounds

Keep an eye on Tiger Joe West, local middleweight, formerly of Monessen. In his most recent start, he defeated Jack McVey, veteran Negro middleweight of New York, at Erie, after having previously lost to McVey and drawn with him. And, in his last bout here, he knocked out Chip Freeman, of Salamanca, N. Y., in one round at Motor Square Garden.

West does all of his training in Pittsburgh, where he can get more and better sparring partners, and, as a result, always is in tip-top shape. He has return bouts in the making at both the Garden and at Erie.

A tour of Europe is in store for the winners of the National A. A. U. senior championship boxing tournament in Madison Square Garden, New York, which opens tonight and continues through Thursday night. The trip will be begun in September and will include appearances in bouts in Germany, France, Italy, Norway and Sweden.

The entry list for the championships includes hundreds of youngsters from 18 states and Canada and the Hawaiian Islands. The Hawaiian team of six has traveled 5,000 miles at a cost of $6,000.

PRO GOLFERS MEET TONIGHT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The pros have it—that is, tonight they have their annual meeting and dinner. The affair is to be held in the Keystone Athletic Club, and from corners far remote in the Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Northern West Virginia districts will travel golf instructors to attend the confab of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association.

The dinner will begin at 6 o'clock, during which guests and pros will mingle at feast, talk and mirth, but thereafter, the guests will be pushed to the one side while those officially-approved and affiliated members of the local branch P. G. A. foregather to determine officers for the ensuing year, register their sentiments on sundry subjects and otherwise discuss the probable tournament program facing them.

OFFICERS MAY STAY

The Tri-State P. G. A.'s nominating committee has not announced its ticket. But, there is little likelihood that the splendid officers now in office will be unseated, as it were—Fred Brand, Sr., of Allegheny, who has been an able president for a number of years; Charley Manning, the same Handsome Smilin' Charley, of Shannopin, who has held forth as vice president, and the modest, commendable Dave McKay, popular Pittsburgh Field Club instructor, who has deservedly held down the dual role of secretary and treasurer.

At the closed meeting, there is a strong probability that the delegate or delegates to the first annual P. G. A. convention, which is to be held at Columbus during the international conflict between American and British Ryder Cup teams, will be instructed to register a stiff protest against the dates set forth for this year's national open championship, to be held in Chicago, so close to the Fourth of July, when every good golf professional who wants to keep his job stays on the home job, that a majority of local professionals will not even take the trouble of attempting to qualify. There is little doubt but that the dates were chosen unwisely.

LANGLEY MEETS ACADEMY

Langley High School's golf team will travel to the home links of Shady Side Academy, there to engage Capt. A. W. Palmer's aggregation tomorrow afternoon. Shady Side has the edge in the intercholastic golf conference by virtue of its victory over John Irwin's Taylor-Allderdice High squad on the Aspinwall course last Friday, in the conference inaugural match.

The Country Club of Pittsburgh will inaugurate its season's activities on Wednesday with a medal play and putting tournament.

Gar Wood Fails To Break Record

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 27.—(AP.)—Gar Wood made two runs over the measured mile course in Indian Creek here this morning in an attempt to break Kaye Don's speedboat record of 103.49 miles per hour, but fell short of the world mark on each trial. His time for the southward run was 102.281 miles per hour, and the north run was made at a speed of 101.034 miles per hour.

Wood's fifth run was clocked at 100.035 miles an hour. This was the slowest run, and at its conclusion Wood put his boat away and said:

"I believe we have about reached the limit with this power. We shall have to get more power to get more speed."

Shannon-Fintex Wins Soccer Cup

The stormy day kept down the crowd and the elements also helped to make things tough for the players. The high strong wind made it practically impossible to control the ball.

The second half found the Fintex outfit running wild and four more goals were scored, while Mollenauer's only score came when Matulegic kicked through his own goal. The lineup:

Glass swept in for a victory over Tolan in the 100-yard dash feature by a final lunge which brought him to the tape hardly an inch ahead of the famous Negro sprinter. His time was 9 7-10 seconds.

You can pay a little less, or far more . . but Pontiac is the happy medium in car quality and cost ★

If you are like a lot of other motorists, what you really want is a car you can be proud of, at a reasonable cost.

That describes the new Pontiac. It has the quality you insist on, yet the price is well within the limits of a reasonable motoring budget.

Driving this car, you will feel a smooth, even power which speaks volumes for its new 60 h. p. engine. One reason for that smoothness is the engine's large size, which means it never has to "labor". And along with ample size it has fine balance of design and construction.

Seeking reasons for Pontiac's unusual riding ease, you will learn that rubber cushions at 43 points in the chassis absorb shocks and vibration.

On hot days or cold days or rainy days you will appreciate the snug comfort and protection of a Pontiac body—insulated against outside temperature, dampness and noise.

Stopping in traffic or riding down a steep hill, a light touch will prove that Pontiac has brakes you can depend on.

And if you care about other people's approval, you'll notice plenty of it as you drive your Pontiac around town! Better still, you'll hear that approval as your guests note the genuine mohair or whipcord upholstery, the rich appointments, the fine finish of every detail inside and outside this modern car.

See the new Pontiac—drive it—and we know you will find it the kind of car you like at the price you want to pay.

YANKEES LOSE LEAD

MISCUES COST M'CARTHY PAIR OF GAMES

Associated Press.

As if it wasn't bad enough to lose three of his best outfielders, including Babe Ruth, within a week's time, something even worse has arisen to make Joe McCarthy prematurely grey. His New York Yankees have taken to lapsing mentally in the pinches, and to say that McCarthy is perturbed is putting it lightly.

As the outright result of two rarely unintelligent gestures over the week-end, the Yankees lost the same number of ball games and dropped out of first place in the American League, a position they had held without a break since opening day. The Cleveland Indians, rained out both days, took over the top without a struggle.

McCarthy's boys pulled the first one Saturday, when Chapman became confused on where to toss the ball at a vital point in the tenth inning and didn't make up his mind until after the Red Sox had scored the winning run.

LARY BOOTS ONE

But that was scarcely anyth...g compared to the rare skit given by Lou Gehrig and Lyn Lary yesterday at Washington. Lary was on base when Lou smote one far into the center pavilion. Lary, rounding third, looked back in time to see the ball bounce back into a fielder's hands, thought it had been caught for the third out and headed for the dugout. Before they could steer him back on the base path, Gehrig passed by with a fine burst of speed and crossed the plate. There went two runs, the exact margin by which the Senators eventually won, 9 to 7. Chapman later hit one into the stands with a fellow Yankee on base and the whole team turned out to escort them safely past third.

Dusty Cooke joined the New York hospital squad when he fell going after Bluege's homer in the third inning. He will be out at least two weeks, physicians said, the result of a displaced collar bone. Myril Hoag is the third Yankee outfielder on the shelf.

In the day's only other American League engagement, Detroit scored its fourth straight victory at the expense of Chicago, 8 to 4.

HURLERS STAR

Two sparkling mound performances flecked a curtailed card in the National League. Heinie Meine gave only four hits in pitching Pittsburgh to a 1 to 0 triumph over St. Louis. It was the season's second defeat for the Champion Cardinals and their first shutout.

Charley Root, veteran Chicago righthander, started, finished and won his third straight game in downing Cincinnati, 3 to 1. Root has permitted only four runs in 27 innings. Rogers Hornsby again led his team's offense with three hits in five trips.

Bowie Season Opens With Charity Day

BALTIMORE, April 27.—(AP.)—The third charity racing day of the spring meet in Maryland opens a 12-day program at Pimlico track today. Bowie opened its season March 30 with the first charity day, that netted $17,000 and Havre de Grace added $33,000 to the cause at its opening day April 13.

The money goes into the fund for relief to the unemployed in Baltimore. On each occasion the state waives its $6,000 license fee, the "take" or "cut" of the track is increased and racing association employes contribute a portion of their salaries.

Lacrosse Added To Olympic Card

BARCELONA, Spain, April 27.—(AP.)—William Garland, of Los Angeles, a delegate to the general meeting of the Olympic committee, which closed its session here yesterday, today said la crosse would be included on the program of the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles.

EVERY MAN A PRINCE

OUR OWN RIPLEY IN CITY OF PRINCES

Believe it or not, but here is Robert L. Ripley, world-famous traveler and cartoonist, in the city of Mekinez, Morocco, where every man inhabitant is a prince. One of them is pictured with him. The city has a population of about 30,000 and is said to have been founded by Moulai Ismael for his children, of whom he had 888.

TECH TRACKERS PERFORM WELL

By JESS CARVER

What cheering is being done hereabouts over college track and field performances appears to be pretty well confined to the Oakland and Schenley Park sector. At that, the cheering is not of exceptional volume, and the greater portion of it comes from Carnegie Tech.

Unfortunately, the boys from the tri-state area didn't fare so well in the Penn relays at Philadelphia last Friday and Saturday. The tri-state district had only one winner, Everett Utterback, Pitt's captain, taking the hop, step and jump. Only one of the relay teams finished in the money, Geneva's mile squad taking third place in a special college mile event.

The West Virginia contingent wound up with only a train ride and the experience. Fraser, the Mountaineers' sprinter, was shutout in the semi-finals of the century, while Hill and Calloway failed to place in their events.

Carnegie Tech, though, didn't have such a bad week-end. Tom Coulter, the ace of the Tartan squad, ran second in the 440-yard high hurdles on Friday at Penn and then traipsed back home to win both the high and low timber events in the dual meet against Western Reserve Saturday, a meet that Tech won in decisive fashion. The Skibo squad, while not of exceptional strength, is pretty well balanced and capable of providing a right interesting afternoon of competition.

All in all, this particular parcel of the depression-drenched land made the poorest showing it has in years in the Penn carnival. We were just among those entered.

The Tipoff

Westminster and Grove City went through a dual meet at New Wilmington Sat'day with so-so results. The Titans won the meet by the same score with which Tech defeated Western Reserve, 83 to 52.

Freddie Pusch, of Grove City, a former Beaver High star, who finished among the first 10 in the national A. A. A. decathlon grind here last August, was the high scorer of the meet. He won the 100, was third in the 220; won the shot; took second in the discus and third in the hammer.

Athletes competing in the Tech-Reserve clash turned in superior marks in 10 of the 15 events, as compared with performances in the Grover-Titan meeting. The local records in the 100, 220, 440, 880, mile, high and low hurdles, shot, pole vault and discus were best. The New Wilmington meet established an edge in the two-mile, javelin, high jump, broad jump and the hammer.

The Middle West, of course, set up an edge over the East in the Penn relays, and the Drake carnival gathered in the major share of the honors in the two big meets. Drake marks were superior in the distance medley, the 400-yard relay, in the half mile, four-mile, 100-yard dash, high jump, pole vault, shot, discus and the javelin.

Local track and field squads, both varsity and scholastic, have busy weekends to look forward to this week. The varsities have the annual Ohio State Relay Carnival and the schools the Geneva interscholastics. Pitt, Tech, Geneva, West Virginia and Bethany will be entered at Ohio. More than 50 high schools, in three classes, will compete at Geneva.

It has been whispered in my dainty ear that Don Lovewell, former Tech varsity guard who assisted Howard Harpster with his football coaching at Geneva last fall, will not return this year and that Brother Harpster is casting his eyes about for a successor.

CARD SHOOT MAY 14

The next regular tournament of the Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters' League will be shot over the South Hills Club traps on May 14. All gunners are welcome to compete.

pass. A moment later Hallahan made a wild pitch and Commy raced along to second.

Hallahan had three balls and no strikes on Suhr and he was somewhat bewildered as he moved to throw the next pitch. Eager to get the ball over, he started his windup and Comorosky had his head up. He stole the hot corner although Jim Wilson's snap throw to Sparky Adams made Commy hit the dirt.

It didn't take Eddie Phillips long to drive in the only run of the contest. The new catcher waited for a good pitch and then smacked it to deep center. Pepper Martin hauled in the ball, but Commy breezed home without opposition.

CATCH SAVES DAY

enacted in the eighth with one out. Ernie Orsatti socked a short liner to left. Commy decided to shoot the works by trying for a diving catch. The ball was less than two inches from the grass and his arms were outstretched when he nailed the rocket.

Paul Waner turned in a spectacular catch of Jim Bottomley's liner that started the last half of the ninth. A big argument arose of this play, the Cardinals claiming Paul scooped the ball. Bill Klem, who ruled in favor of the Pirates, was adamant and eventually the Redbirds went back to their task of trying to score a run. Rightfielder

Outfielder Fred Bennett, who was the storm center in the recent court decision which upheld Judge Landis' power, reported to the Pirates in time to practice with them yesterday. Fred appears to be in fine shape as he had been working out in Memphis, his home town.

BELL GOLF CHAMP

HONOLULU, April 27.—(INS.)—Arthur Bell today was the winner of the Waialae golf tournament by virtue of a 2-and-1 victory over Charley Chun.

VARSITY NET SCHEDULE FOR WEEK HEAVY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

A full program of intercollegiate racqueting is on tap for the coming week, with net hosts of Carnegie Tech and Duquesne joining Dr. Billy McElroy's early-bird Panthers in promising local competition. The Pitt contingent was fortunately able to entertain Bethany in the Steel City opener on Saturday, April 18, an extraordinarily risky date, if one considers the general run of weather hereabouts at this time of year. Wednesday the Tartan and Duke forces will tempt the fates. On that afternoon the Schenley Park and Bluff delegations will plunge into action with vigor, for Tech must meet the clever Bison combine at Bethany, while the Hilltoppers are booked for the receiving line with their ancient rivals from Geneva slated as visitors.

TECH MEETS DUKES

The premier district court event of the week graces the Friday card, Carnegie and Duquesne resuming athletic relations after a dozen years' layoff. The fray will be staged on the Bluff asphalt, and hectic battle is anticipated.

The day following the Tartan tussle, Coach Siverd will send his Red and Blue luminaries into argument with the Crimson, of Grove City, this engagement likewise being a home party for the Bluffites.

With Carnegie and Duquesne caring for the Pittsburgh end of hostilities, Pitt will fare forth on a District of Columbia-Maryland invasion that looms as quite a tough contract. Loss of Bill O'Loughlin, a virtual certainty for the important number two berth, was a severe wallop for the Blue and Gold to absorb. Without "Little Bill's" presence, the prospect of clean sweep over George Washington, Georgetown, and Navy—outfits to be encountered on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, respectively—is none too bright, though with Capt. Eddie Jacobs, Milt Cohen, and Irvin Goodman in the lineup, the Panthers will be far from a pushover for even the best of 'em.

Meanwhile, as varsity stars hold the competitive spotlight, the starting day of Inter-Club League tilting draws on apace. Friday, May 1, is the deadline for admission of new teams to the loop. Squads seeking place on the P. T. A. circuit will apply to Chairman Jack Lauler. The address is 41 Boquet street and the 'phone number is Mayflower 1489.

Chairman J. Howard Moore of the annual "Tennis Night Smoker" has announced that the 1931 event will be run off at the P. A. A. on Tuesday, May 12. All net devotees, regardless of club affiliation, are invited to attend.

Shorter Working Week May Be Permanent

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE CURRENT DEPRESSION in business activity may have a permanent effect on working hours in a great number of the leading American industries. Smaller demand has been responsible for reduced working time in most manufacturing organizations. This has been extended to office as well as shop forces. In many cases five-day weeks or shorter working days have been put into effect in order to make it possible for employers to reduce the wages of workers paid by the day or the week.

In some cases these conditions are only temporary, but in many industries working time may be permanently reduced while the number of employes rather than the working time will be increased when it is necessary to expand production.

Workers Carry Burden

SHORTER WORKING HOURS in themselves may be desirable but an objectionable feature is found in the fact that the employes are being required to bear the entire burden since their wages are being cut in proportion to the shorter hours.

If the working week is shortened permanently, the effect will be to decrease individual purchasing power, but it may offer the only solution to the problem of technological unemployment which was bothering us even in the palmy days of 1929. The shorter week, however, will not unfavorably effect the country's total purchasing power although it will curtail the incomes of most of the individuals who are working. If commodity prices continue low they may compensate for smaller individual earnings.

Problem Created By Machinery

AT INTERVALS DURING the past century industrial countries have suffered from periodic waves of unemployment which have been largely attributable to the increasing use of labor-saving machinery. In every case the solution has been found in shorter working hours. Increasing hourly wages have prevented any decline in individual purchasing power and in addition have given workers the means to enjoy their greater leisure time.

During the past 20 years the development of new industries has been an important contributing factor in taking up the slack created by the use of more efficient machinery. Automobiles, radio and motion pictures which have created innumerable new jobs for the men forced out of older industries. It will be recalled, however, that even in 1928 and 1929, when business was working at top speed, employment conditions were not as ideal as might have been expected under such prosperity. Rapid as had been the development of new industrial activities, the movement had not quite kept pace with the perfection of labor-saving machinery. Industry was badly in need of a readjustment which would shorten the working week and create a better distribution of jobs.

Depression Has Bright Side

PAINFUL AS THE CURRENT slump in business has been, it now appears quite probable that it may be the principal factor in bringing about this readjustment of working hours and this better distribution of employment, the benefits of which will be apparent when business is restored to a normal basis. Past experience has shown that the relationship of wages and prices has always adjusted itself to increase rather than decrease the purchasing power of the individual in spite of the fact that working time has been declining for many years.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Local Market Narrow

SELLING WAVES SWEEP OVER MARKET

Decline Given Impetus by Suspension of Investment House; U.S. Steel Tumbles

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP.)—The deflation of share values received fresh impetus from the suspension of a prominent Philadelphia investment house today.

The stock market pointed upward for a few minutes in the initial transactions, with Continental Shares, Inc., and relater issues rising briskly, in response to the announced reorganization of the management of Continental.

Large-scale liquidation soon appeared, however, and although there was a brief letup after announcement of the West & Co. suspension, fresh waves of selling soon swept the market.

Oils dropped sharply. Standard of New Jersey tumbled 3 points to a new low price since 1924. U. S. Steel dropped 3 points to still another minimum level since 1927.

One of the more encouraging developments of the day in world finance was the budget message of Philip Snowden, chancellor of the British exchequer. Mr. Snowden spoke hopefully of the general trade outlook, and proposed only temporary expedients to tide over the exchequer pending the arrival of better times.

While selling of the oil shares was in such volume as to suggest necessitious liquidation, the Snowden message proposed a 50 per cent increase in the tax on gasoline, which may restrict British consumption. Petroleum issues were weak on the London as well as the New York market.

Wall street bankers explain that Mr. Snowden's proposed appropriation of $100,000,000 of the British dollar exchange fund kept in New York will have no appreciable effect upon the local money market. As a matter of fact, reductions in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's bill buying rate both last week and again today, have tended to speed a flow of funds from this center to London.

Weakness in the steel shares, while also of such proportions as to suggest forced liquidation, may have been partly a reflection of nervousness over the quarter dividend and earnings announcements to be made by U. S. Steel tomorrow.

Recent comment has indicated a general expectation that the corporation will declare its regular $1.75 dividend although estimates indicate that only a small fraction of it has been earned during the period.

In general, credit was a little firmer, despite the fresh reduction in the federal reserve's bill buying rate. Call money was unavailable under the official rate of 1½ per cent, although there had been offerings at 1 per cent last week.

ATCHISON NET INCREASES

CHICAGO, April 27.—Atchison Railway's March net operating income jumped to $1,469,016 in this year's report from $634,817 a year ago, while gross dropped to $14,743,831 from $18,029,300.

Net operating income for three months amounted to $4,072,356 against $4,884,856 in the like 1930 period, and gross totaled $42,591,580 as against $53,166,586.

LOUISVILLE, April 27.—Louisville and Nashville Railway reports March net operating income of $1,076,772, comparing with $522,808 for March, 1930, and for three months net operating income totals $2,239,381 as against $3,073,266 a year previous.

Bank Acceptance Rates Cut Again

NEW YORK, April 27.—Leading dealers have reduced bid and asked rates on all maturities of bankers acceptances ⅛ of 1 per cent.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 27. — Wheat scored early advances today after a wavering start but corn touched new bottom levels. Upturns in wheat were influenced by relative firmness of Liverpool quotations and by frost reports from Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. Opening at ⅛ cent off to ⅜ cent up, wheat gained all around. Corn started at ½ cent decline to ½ cent advance and subsequently underwent a general sag.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, April 27. — Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged early today at 3.25 for spots duty paid, with no sales reported.

There was no change in refined, all refiners listing at 4.40, with business confined to withdrawals against old contracts.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 27.—Weakness of leading oil shares featured rather active selling in the Curb market today. Utilities offered a fair degree of resistance and the more prominent industrial specialties gave evidence of some support, but in the main the list was heavy.

Scorpio Plans Party After Election Victory

A sensational melodramatic story of the underworld, adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer-Cosmopolitan picture.

Pandemonium broke loose in the Scorpio headquarters as the final returns announced the Gouger as the next mayor of Centro. Hasty telephone calls—the chartering of a roadhouse—a load of liquor on its way, and Scorpio began gathering his satellites.

"We'll make this a BIG party!" he announced. Newton watched him with the shadow of a grin, then turned to speak to the newspapermen gathered at the headquarters.

"It was a close one—we made out by eight hundred votes," the Gouger was boasting to the assembled scribes, when Scorpio broke up the session.

"We'll all get dressed," he declared, "and I'll have cars to pick us up for The Elite Roadhouse." With a roar of approval the gang scattered, and Scorpio proceeded to the dressing room in the rear of his office, where his dinner clothes were laid out for such occasions. Peaches, apparently eager to be of service, followed him.

Peaches Angered

"I heard it, Honey—you won!" she babbled, as she hunted for his shirts, his studs, his necktie. Scorpio eyed her sourly. His irritation of a few hours before had not passed.

"I'll go and get dressed now," went on Peaches, "seeing as we're going to celebrate."

Scorpio's scowl deepened.

"Where do you get that 'we' stuff?" he demanded. "I said I was going to celebrate—but I didn't say it was going to be with an old battle ax like you, did I?" He looked her over with distaste, then grinned. "I'm going to get myself a real dame—a young one!" he continued.

"Aw—don't get sore, honey!" she begged, placatingly. "Gee—you look handsome tonight."

"Not handsome," he remarked, almost musingly, as he adjusted a large diamond stud in his white shirtfront. "Not handsome—but then again, not so bad, either." He applied a little perfume. It reminded him of Anne, downstairs at the cashier's desk. She used the same perfume.

Anne! Now, there was a girl. Those two reporters were crazy over her—and come to think of it, Johnny Franks had been, too. Funny he'd never thought of it before. Just the girl to take along to the roadhouse tonight—

"Get away from me—don't crowd so close. Beat it!" he ordered the still solicitous Peaches.

Something in his tone seemed to warn Peaches that here was a crisis. She backed away, looked at him, and understood.

Tiger-like rage distorted her hard but handsome face. Her eyes narrowed, like those of a leopard. Then she sprang forward, eyes blazing, her words fairly hissed through her clenched teeth.

"What do you mean beat it?" she demanded. "You think you're going to kick me out, you dirty double-crosser! You slaughterhouse rat!"

The woman reeled back, and her convulsive movement broke the string of large pearls she wore. Like marbles, they rattled on the floor and rolled to the corners of the room.

Sobbing and crying in rage and pain, Peaches dropped on her knees, and began gathering them up, as blood and tears dropped together on the floor. Scorpio eyed her with disgust.

Strikes Her

"I've given you a year of my life," blubbered Peaches, as she retrieved the rolling pearls. "I've stood for your rotten abuse—I've tried to make a gent outa you—and now you'd throw me over for the first tramp that comes along—you—you—"

"Don't get sore at me!" she pleaded, her rage now having given way to frantic apprehension. "Don't throw me over! You may get 'em younger, but they won't stick to you like I would! Let me stay! I swear I won't bother you no more—I won't even say nothing if I see you with another dame—"

Scorpio eyed her, groveling on the floor, and then recollection brought an evil grin of triumph to his face. He roared with laughter.

"Remember—when I told you that one day you'd come crawling on your hands and knees to me?" he asked, between gasps of merriment. "Well—every dog has his day!"

Colimo Pays Visit

"Come into the back room," he ordered, and Anne followed. Without preamble, Scorpio began.

"I got some big plans for you, honey," he announced, and paused, to watch the effect. Anne looked indifferent.

"That so?" she inquired. Her indifference piqued him, still intrigued him.

"Sure!" he remarked expansively. "I'm tearing the church down—and going to build a dance hall there. How'd you like to make five hundred bucks a month running it?"

Anne shrugged.

"Thanks, Mr. Scorpio — but I'm not interested," she parried.

"Look, girlie," he wheedled. "You ain't getting any younger—and I don't see any diamonds on your piazza. Give me a chance and I'd trim you up just like a Christmas tree!"

Anne was about to reply, when an interruption caused both to turn. Metz, the dummy, had opened the door, and, by excited looks and gestures, indicated that someone important was outside, waiting to see the gang leader. Scorpio turned to the girl.

"Just wait here a minute, honey," he instructed, "till I see who it is." He followed Metz. Anne hurried to the other door, and fled the room.

Upstairs to the private office Scorpio followed Metz, pausing on the landing to beckon a slim youth at a table to follow. The boy had of late been a habitue of the place. He was the newsboy Scorpio used to buy papers from, back in the old days—in fact, he'd bought a paper from him even on the night he'd had his first adventure in gangland. Now, grown to adolescence, the youth was an apprentice in his gangster mob.

"Stick around—may need you," ordered Scorpio, as he indicated the outer office. The boy nodded eagerly, as he regarded the gang leader with a doglike admiration. Scorpio entered the private office, to greet the unknown visitor.

It was Colimo, the gangster from the city. Faultlessly attired as usual, the "gentleman gangster" stepped forward as Scorpio entered, started and looked quickly around for his guards. But Colimo's manner was propitiatory.

"Just dropped in to congratulate you, Scorpio," declared Colimo. "You see—I found out that it was really Johnny Franks who bumped my brother—and I'm sorry we tried to put you on the spot that night. But you know how it was—Franks turned you up. Yes, we even talked about going into a partnership on the strength of your being put on the spot. But we know what really happened—I have no hard feelings. Have you?"

Scorpio grinned.

"Certainly not, Joe," he responded, shaking hands with the city gangster. "We boys ought to get along mighty well from now on."

"That's right," answered Colimo. "Drop in any time you're in the city—and we'll talk. We might get together—the way Franks and Newton wanted to. In fact, I've been thinking a lot about that lately—and if you talk to Newton you'll probably find out he thinks it might be a good idea too."

Gives Youth Job

Scorpio nodded. He had talked to Newton several times about this lately—but what he had in mind—well, it was just as well Colimo didn't know. He called for drinks. Scorpio had brandy—Scorpio his usual milk. Then the city gangster took his departure.

With a bound, Scorpio was at the door of the other office, beckoning Metz, who promptly entered, handed the gangster chief a sawed-off "belly gun," those short-barreled revolvers, easily hidden, which gangsters find so effective for close range. Placing this in his coat pocket, he turned and beckoned the former newsboy.

"Kid," he remarked, "I told you that I'd make a hot shot out of you some of these days. You've been sticking around and shown that you have a head on you. I've found out that I can trust you—and now you're going to be one of the gang in earnest."

The flattered boy fairly swelled with pride.

"Gee, Mr. Scorpio—that's great of you!"

"Tonight," went on Scorpio, "you're going out on your first job—a sweet job. A hundred bucks in it, kid. Just follow the Dummy—he'll tip you off." He indicated the waiting Metz, and pressed the sawed-off revolver into the boy's eager hand.

Metz exchanged a knowing glance with Scorpio, and moved swiftly and silently down the stairs and into the street—the eager boy at his heels.

DAILY TRUE STORY — A Little Brook

Missing Fiancee Located Through Painting

Lida tossed her music roll into the front hall and called Bruce, her water spaniel. She had been over to Miss Hartman's for her weekly piano lesson—and it always made her nervous.

Lida was 15 then.

She made a short cut across the old fair grounds and down through the pasture to where a little brook curved about at the foot of Mile Hill.

Bruce barked and ran about joyously. He knew that he was being taken to the brook.

For a while Lida tossed sticks into the pools and watched her dog plunge in and bring them out. Tired of this, she picked some violets. She knew where the best ones grew, for Lida knew this little brook as well as she knew the rooms of her home.

Following the faint path along the winding banks, she passed around a bend that, screened by thick alders, was her favorite beauty spot. She stopped suddenly, as she came through the alders.

A man was sitting there—no, it was a boy, probably not more than a year or so older than herself. He was writing, she thought. A closer inspection and she saw that he was sketching on a large pad.

Then she recognized him—he was the "new boy," that is, the boy who had come up from the South and gone into the school. He was a class ahead of her. His name, someone had said, was Jarvis, Kirk Jarvis, she remembered. He had been in town only a week or so. She hadn't spoken to him as yet.

Presented With Sketch

Just then young Jarvis, hearing the dog splash into the brook, looked up. He nodded and smiled.

Lida approached somewhat diffidently, but curious to see what he was doing.

"Oh—it's the log bridge—it's splendid!"

"Pretty spot here," Jarvis said. "Down where I used to live we didn't have brooks like this, we had little streams called 'branches,' and mostly creeks with yellow muddy water. You are Lida Converse, aren't you? I asked someone—" he hesitated and blushed like a girl.

The sketch finished he tore it from the pad and gave it to her.

Lida was pleased. He had signed it, "K. Jarvis" and added the year.

"All artists do that," he explained.

"Are you really an artist?"

"Oh, no, but I am going to be, if possible."

She showed it at home.

"O, yes," Lida's father said. "He must be the son of the Jarvis who has opened the new hardware store. Seems a pretty good sort, met him at the lodge last night."

Lida's Father Dies

He explained that it would take him quite a while, three or four visits there. He sketched in with charcoal and then started with the ground work. He had some good lessons, he explained, from a woman down in Virginia, a nice little old woman who did some pretty good work.

Lida watched him work. She liked his quiet shy smile, and the funny little long creases, like dimples, whenever he did smile. She liked his steady gray eyes and his shock of light hair that didn't curl but got wavy and blew about in all directions.

That was the beginning of a great friendship—a friendship that ripened into adolescent love.

Kirk Jarvis went through the high school but he could go no further then. He had to work in his father's store.

All his spare time he painted. Not evenings, of course. Whenever possible, except Wednesday and Saturday, when the store was open.

In the summer when the days were long Lida and Kirk always went down by the little brook and dreamed their dreams and planned their plans.

They were much in love.

Lida's parents regarded it as a "kid love affair" and because Kirk was really a nice fellow, there were no objections.

"I'll do some work good enough to sell before so very long," Kirk assured her, "and when I get so I can do that I'll be able to marry you."

"I'll wait—I'll wait forever," Lida promised.

She meant it—then.

Lida's father died. Lida's mother went to live with an older sister in New York, a very wealthy sister at that.

Inherits Fortune

The parting was a painful affair, but Lida and Kirk swore loyalty. Twice a week they exchanged letters. By dint of great saving and extra work, together with a little commercial work illustrating window cards for advertising, Kirk could afford to make a trip to New York.

Then came a letter. Lida was going to Europe!

"Auntie has died and left mother her money," Lida wrote, "so she can afford it. She is going to finish my education abroad. I'll keep writing, darling, and I'll keep my promise. Nothing shall ever part us."

Kirk did not receive any letters from Lida after that. Lida wrote three, at very long intervals. Her mother destroyed them without letting Lida know it. It was time, her mother thought, to break up that silly kid affair. Things were different. They had money, quantities of it. Lida must not marry a poor, small-town third-rate artist. There would be a brilliant match.

The time came when Kirk was alone. His father had passed on. He sold the store. Already he had sold some landscrapes in Boston. Now he went there and sold some more, most of his later and better work.

And perhaps he would find Lida there! She and her mother had never come back from Europe. That much Kirk had found out.

His year in Paris was extended to five. But he did not see Lida, nor did he hear about her. Then he came back and settled in a little studio down in the Village. This was at the time when there were really artists living and working down there.

Husband Murdered

Kirk was away up in northern Canada that summer that the newspapers published the sensational stories of the violent death of Baron von Esston. He did not see the pictures of the widowed Baroness von Esston, who had been Miss Lida Converse, of New York.

Kirk fished a little and painted a great deal all through that summer in the shadow of the towering Canadian Rockies.

No papers reached him containing stories of how the sporty Baron von Esston was killed by a French war veteran with the bayonet from the veteran's gun, because of coming suddenly home and finding the baron with his young wife. It was stated in several of the papers that the baroness had not been living with her husband for some time, but had been making him small allowances just to keep him away.

And so Kirk came back from Canada and plunged into his work again. But autumn was approaching. He recalled the glories of the foliage up there by the little brook, so he went up to the old home town, put up at the new "Inn" and finished a clever painting of the log bridge, the same place, unchanged, as when, a school boy, he first met Lida there.

It was in the winter that a woman was coming from a classy little hat shop and paused to glance at some paintings in the windows of the art shop adjoining. She gasped, clutched at the window for supoprt and then went inside.

"I want to buy that painting," she said, "and I want the name of the painter.

"Ah, that one, it is by Kirk Jarvis. It is called 'The Little Brook.' It is——"

"I know, I know all about it, I've sat on those logs," the woman said.

Kirk Jarvis shouted "Come," an hour later.

"Lida!"

"Oh, Kirk!"

After a long embrace she tore the wrapping from the painting.

"That is how I found you," she said.

The painting hangs in their home now.

Stop Selling Police Power!

Industrial Police or Trade Police All Based On Wrong Idea.

Gov. Pinchot, who last week saw fit to announce a number of changes in the administration plans for a successor to the industrial ("coal and iron") police, still is far wide of striking at the principal evil of the private police organization. That is the delegation by the Commonwealth of its sovereign police powers to corporations. Gov. Pinchot calls his proposed new force "trade police" and refers to the organization, proposed to be set up under the amended Wilson bill, as a protective service.

Representative Musmanno, who is sponsoring a bill to do away with industrial police and to permit corporations to hire property guards, declares the amendments proposed by the administration do not render the bill any less objectionable than it was originally.

"It still gives these corporation police unlimited powers," said Representative Musmanno, commenting on the proposed changes by the administration; "it still makes them irresponsible, financially and otherwise; it still gives them power to rove all over the state; it still puts the state in the shameful position of selling its sovereign police power."

That is a harsh phrase—"selling its sovereign police power." But that is just what the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been doing and is doing now, and if it is to continue to do so, it might just as well do it under the present industrial police system as any other, no matter what the system be called. The people want the state to keep that power entirely in its own hands. Let corporations guard their property, of course, but do not give them the power to arm thugs to go out and murder people as the miner, Borcoski, was murdered.

The fact that it is to be a small force—250—has nothing to do with the principle of the matter. If there were only one roving private policeman in the state that would be too many. The Musmanno bill provides corporations full protection on their own properties. Protection elsewhere is a matter that concerns only state or local constituted authorities.

Daylight Costs Nothing

Summer Time Schedule Valuable Economically as Well as Physically.

With the recurrence of the annual summer period of daylight saving, the question of its wisdom is raised, as usual, for there are die-hards in this as in other modern movements. Yet the movement continues to grow annually, as more and more communities are convinced that it has many benefits and few, if any, really serious faults.

This is the fourteenth year for daylight saving in Pittsburgh and in this city we have one of its original advocates, Councilman Robert Garland, often called "the father of daylight saving." Several years ago Mr. Garland wrote a booklet on the subject.

From it we learn that Benjamin Franklin was an early proponent of the fact that candles cost money while daylight didn't. There was a practical money value to his "early to bed and early to rise" maxim. He contributed to the Journal de Paris in 1784 an article on "diminishing the cost of light" by opening shops earlier and doing business only in daylight hours.

As to economy, the booklet cites that in one year in Massachusetts the saving in electric light bills due to daylight saving was $1,500,000. Among other benefits claimed for it is increased efficiency of the worker through the substitution of natural for artificial light, the substitution of a cool morning hour for a hot afternoon hour, the physical as well as economic benefit of home gardening, to which are given additional hours amounting to a total of more than three full working days a month.

From the health standpoint, the argument is equally strong, for the therapeutic value of sunlight, especially for children, is recognized by all physicians. If daylight's benefits cost nothing and injure nobody, we certainly would be unwise not to take advantage of them.

To Open New Air Line

Pittsburgh to Be On Eight-Hour Route Between New York and Chicago.

Pittsburgh's facilities for air travel will be increased next Friday when a new eight-hour all-air passenger and express service will be started between New York and Chicago with this city as one of the principal stops.

The service, which will be inaugurated by Transcontinental and Western Air, will add another link to the aviation lines serving this district. During the past two years Pittsburgh has been developing into one of the major terminal points for the air transport lines. These increased facilities are showing the justice of the large expenditures made for air ports and are an indication that the enthusiasm about air transportation, which developed following the successful trans-Atlantic flights, was not misplaced.

The fact that the announcement of the opening of the new air line was made by John F. Deasy, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is a further indication of the changing attitude of the steam lines toward other forms of transportation. Instead of showing hostility to newer types of competition, the carriers are discovering that their greatest future lies in the co-ordination of their activities with buses, waterways and air lines.

Improve Your Home

Better Homes Week Has Purpose of Making Houses More Liveable.

The Pittsburgh Housing Association announces that this is Better Homes Week, a national movement for the improvement of homes. The local association, the constant policy of which is to aid in establishing minimum standards for all homes, points out that repairs made when needed help to maintain property values. It also makes the practical suggestion that owners who now take advantage of low prices not only will save money on materials but also will provide work for unemployed workmen.

The program of Better Homes Week has for its purpose the imparting of knowledge of ways in which all families, irrespective of income, may improve their homes. This includes suggestions especially as to improvement of kitchens, living rooms and gardens. It is a most laudable purpose and one in which anyone can well interest himself.

Men unemployed elsewhere can work for themselves to good effect by turning their hands to home improvement. There are many ways in which it can be done at no cost whatever except that of labor.

Shadow of The Fence

By Nelson Harding

As Uncle Sam regards that tree,
So backward in these days of Spring,
It strikes him that so high a fence
May keep fruit trees from blossoming.

And he begins to realize that
All shade and no sun stunts the growth,
A lower fence might help the tree
By giving it a share of both.

Chaplin's Poor Start

His Fine Mansion, Learn From Both.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN AND HOUSE IN WHICH HE WAS BORN

Learn from this picture, young ladies and gentlemen, who think you "never had a chance in life," that it doesn't matter much how you start or where you are born.

What matters is WHAT YOU DO AFTER YOU START. And, more to the purpose, you can learn from these pictures that too fine a start is a handicap. Great successes usually start humbly.

The upper picture shows Charlie Chaplin and the little house, still standing, one of a long dismal row in which he was born. You could not imagine a more dull, smoke-covered little place to start.

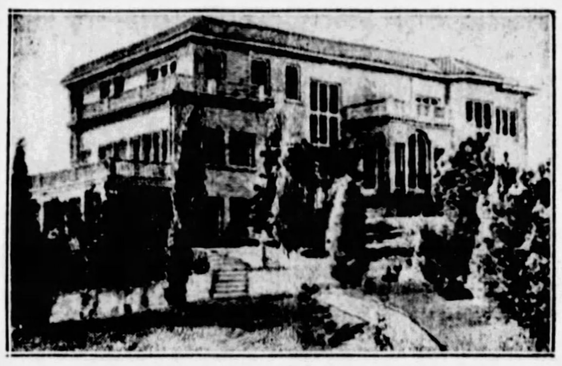
For your comfort, remember this:

If Chaplin had started in the big house with a rich father, instead of starting in a little house with nothing, he would never have been heard of, in all probability. His chances of success, born in the little house, were at least 10,000 times as great as they would have been if he was born in the big house.



IN THIS FINE HOLLYWOOD HOUSE CHAPLIN LIVES NOW.

He who does not know that, knows little.

Learn further, that success does not necessarily mean change.

It may mean sticking to one thing. You know how successful Chaplin has been for years. Look at him. He hasn't changed those shoes, trousers, hat or expression. He hasn't changed or abandoned the cane.

"FIND A GOOD THING AND STICK TO IT," is his wise motto.

Make it YOURS. Find the right occupation and stick to THAT. Find a good piece of real estate and stick to THAT. Find a good opportunity, develop it and then STICK to it.

Reading the classified advertising in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will help you to find opportunities. Read carefully, thoroughly, don't be like Rabindranath Tagore's man, seeking the magic pebble.

Modern Love Gestures

When a fond wife recently painted black stripes around the legs of her husband's dove-colored Easter trousers, he sued for divorce on the grounds of "cruelty." Yet, it may have been nothing but excessive love, which inspired the Little Woman to decorate her spouse for the holiday. Love of art—or love of husband. You never can tell!

Love has been defined as "the spark, struck out by sex-antagonism;" and, apparently, we are all getting back to nature.

Most of the amorous poems you'll find in the current press are of the "I-love-you-so-I'd-like-to-black-your-eye" variety. Or of the "You-may-be-Prince-Charming-to-someone-but-you're-only-a-headache-to-me" school.

* * *

Whenever a fair gal sues an ex-fond-lover for breach of promise, she swears that she only wants to take away his money "because she loved him so!"

* * *

Two or three loving couples, according to news reports, have recently expressed their passionate regard for each other by flinging cloissone vases and bridge lamps at each other's heads across the bridge table. The Xantippe gesture—with modernistic improvements!

Face-slapping, hair-pulling, eye-blacking and pinching have all figured in the divorce records among the love-tokens exchanged by modern couples.

Lots of women have gone so far as to shoot a man in order to prove their love. But this seems unnecessarily extreme.

Most of us would prefer a milder love—a love that is less hectic and violent. The kind of husbandly love that expresses itself in hanging portieres, paying the charge account cheerfully, and occasionally wiping the dishes would satisfy the heart of almost any woman.

* * *

And the average man would be quite content with a wifely devotion, that went no farther than fetching the aspirin, putting the salve on his sunburn, and tucking a hot-water bottle on his feet.

Such innocuous love may seem pretty tame to this high-powered generation; but it is far easier on the nerves and the furniture. The too intensive variety is so likely to lead to alimony—and all that sort of thing!

GRAY, GENIUS OF BOTANY

By Archibald Henderson

Asa Gray is one of those scientists who, by sheer resolution, natural ability, and partiality for accuracy and completeness succeed in distancing their competitors and rising to the highest position in their own field. The works of Gray are classics in botany; the very name, Asa Gray, seems to embody the very idea of botany. As President Eliot, of Harvard, said of Gray's Manual of Botany of the Northern United States: This manual has passed through a large number of editions, is clear, accurate and compact to an extraordinary degree, and within its geographic limits is an indispensable book for the student of American botany.

Asa Gray was born in Sanquoit, Oneida County, N. Y., November 18, 1810. His father was a tanner, and Asa began his career performing menial tasks in connection with the tanning business. After three years of schooling, at a grammar school and an academy, he began the study of medicine in the Fairfield Medical School, and in 1931 he received his degree.

An accident caused him to become a botanist. He happened to read the article, "Botany," in Brewster's Edinburgh Encyclopedia, and while he was studying medicine, he spent some time in collecting and identifying plants.

The great figure of the day in botany, at that time, in this country was Dr. John Torrey. In spite of Christopher Columbus, America was still an undiscovered country, so far at least as botany was concerned. A great part of the rich flora yet remained to be collected, studied and classified; and this was especially true of flowering plants.

Gray was a man of alert mind, athletic, and possessed of a vivid personality. The association with Torrey in botanical pursuits was a fruitful one. Through Torrey's influence, Gray was in 1836 appointed curator of the collections of the New York Lyceum of Natural History. His botanical career may be said properly to begin with this appointment. In the very year of his appointment, his Elements of Botany came out; and this was the forerunner of a long series of model textbooks, unrivaled in their field. Two of these books, How Plants Grow and How Plants Behave, went far to arouse popular interest in the United States in botanical studies.

A great work, Flora of North America, was produced in parts by Torrey and Gray in collaboration. It was Gray's determination not to depend upon European botanists for descriptions of American flora. Much confusion in the literature of American botany had come about, as the result of imperfect or inadequate descriptions of plants. To remedy these defects, Gray made six trips to Europe, beginning in 1838. Not only did he visit all the great herbaria, but he formed valuable connections with the leading botanists of England and the Continent.

In 1842, Gray accepted the Fisher professorship of natural history at Harvard, and won fame as teacher, author and investigator. Cambridge became the botanical center of America. The herbarium, as President Eliot said, soon became the largest and most valuable in America, and on account of the numerous type specimens it contains, it is likely to remain a collection of national importance. Gray wrote many papers and books, and received high distinction from scientific societies. He died, honored at home and abroad, on January 30, 1888.

Wise Words

Know then thyself; presume not God to scan; the proper study of mankind is man.—Pope.

Criticism, as it was first introduced by Aristotle, was meant as a standard of judging well.—Johnson.

And no man can be always sad
Unless he wills to have it so.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I saw it first in a small, shabby garden, on one of those grudging, tight-lipped spring mornings which come to New England. There it stood, in the midst of the starved grass, in the gray earth whose core was still bitter from the winter cold. And beside it, an old woman as starved and gray and bitter as her garden patch. What possible tragedy or frustration could so warp human flesh and spirit—I thought. Then the next instant I forgot her at the sight of that strange, proud flower.

A great, dark lily, rising out of blasted soil . . . with velvety petals, purple-black as smoke. Over the smoke, a filigree of silver veins, as intricate and arrogant as the embroidery of a coronation robe. Amazing—to see that proud, beautiful flower rising from the grim, starved earth . . . holding its head so high against the grudging grayness of the sky.

"Black flag lily," the natives called it, pausing briefly to peer curiously at its dark majesty. They did not greatly admire it—never begged for a root of it. Puritans still, they did not approve of such rich arrogance in either flower or folk. The spirit of sour sacrifice was still upon them. That bitter, frustrated old woman was the result of their creed.

Later, I learned the flower's true name — "Mourning Iris." "Mourning Iris" — a haunting name. A name that came to have a deeper meaning to me as the years passed and I, too, had to root in blasted gardens under grudging skies. Again and again that picture came back to me . . . gray sky, grim earth, gaunt woman and majestic flower—

Out of blighted life . . . that woman.

Mourners, both. But the woman bore her grief bitterly . . . and the flower bore its darkness majestically.

And I saw that that is the way with all of us. For pain is borne variously and grief is what we make it.

Some wear grief like a coronation robe—as though they had been raised to royalty by their dark experience. As indeed they have. For those who have suffered greatly have gone deeper into the mysteries and adventures of living than other people. They are the initiated and the anointed. They know things that other people do not know and they can, if they will, help as other people cannot help. And there is a strange, proud beauty about them. They have loved and lived and have paid for it with a very great pain, but it was all worthwhile. The earth that holds their roots may be blasted, the skies above them may be gray. But they hold themselves gallantly, challenging the grayness and the grimness of life—

They wear pain as that tall lily wore its darkness—majestically.

But others wear their pain as that old woman wore it—meanly, restful. As though ashamed and angry because, once, they had dared to hope.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

On Days of Pain

On days of pain, within My quiet room
What gladness can I win
To daunt the gloom?

I dream of wind's refrain
And sunlight's smile
When this sad guest called pain
A little while
Lingers in this dim place
Beside me here;
I turn from his dark face
To thoughts of cheer.
His touch I thrust aside.
In fancies fleet,
Far from this place I glide
To pastures sweet
With flowering thoughts of love
And happy days;
On days of pain I rove
Down dreamland's ways.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 27.—Diary of a modern Pepys: This day I gave my wife a wedding anniversary present, a tidy sum saved unbeknown to her. Then to look at a new auto I articled to buy, a light tan with thin red stripes, and to the Garden to see again young Clyde Beatty's bravery among ferocious animals.

Home where came Jim, the barber, and told of days when a lad on Second avenue and trimmed Gyp the Blood, Lefty Louie, Dago Frank and other harum scarums of a hell roaring section. And now Jim is barbering at the Ritz, a sedate man of family with a home at Sheepshead Bay.

After dinner to One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and Broadway with Minnie Vesey and Flora Le Briton to see a talkie acted solely by dogs and very amusing and on the way back I refreshed the ladies with a flagon of orange drink and a red apple. Then reading the sonnets in "Fatal Interview" by Edna Millay.

Dinky ferryboat orchestra, wheezing old favorites and passing the hat, are often the last stand of musicians who have seen better days. A number have played in symphony orchestras. One fiddler was a former leader at Tony Pastor's. And several of the puckish minstrel are those who traveled from coast to coast with trained bears, but are now too old to stand such rigors. Orchestras consist of a harp and fiddle sometimes augmented by an accordion. They rarely average more than $2 a day in their collections.

Bruce Barton is perhaps America's most versatile scribbler. Aside from his lectures, he writes a monthly essay for a magazine, a novel or so a year, numerous magazine articles, newspaper syndicated articles, is head of a large advertising agency, speaks at two or three luncheons weekly. And finds time to play golf.

At a nearby table in a restaurant last evening was Ed Wynnian "perfect fool" in real life. He was a long-faced fellow who festooned his garrulities with flutery unsure laughs. It was impossible to believe at first glance it was not the stage comedian. The waiter said he was a frequent patron and diners often sent him slips of paper to autograph, thinking he was the lisping Wynn.
